PREFACE

An endeavor has been made to gather in this volume in convenient form for reference, a record of the actions, campaigns and other movements in the civil war in which Wisconsin men took part, and to include the efforts of the people of the state, through the legislature and the courts and other organized agencies, to uphold and support the forces of the Union in the manner prescribed by the law and the constitution.

The first section of the book embraces a list of the actions and campaigns in which Wisconsin troops were actually and actively engaged in contact with the enemy, giving date and reference to the organizations engaged; and reports, if any, made by the commanders of the regiments or batteries which furnish an account of the actions in question. Notes are added, giving references to "Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies" which contain all the official reports printed and available.

Then follows a brief sketch of each regiment and battery organized in the state and mustered into the service of the United States, giving the period of service and the department, state or territory in which such organization served.

Copies of official tables, showing population of the state, counties, cities and villages in 1860, election returns in 1860 and 1864, and copies of official circulars of the adjutant general and war department, all of which furnish information relating to civil war period, also are presented.

Campaigns in Northern Alabama and Middle Tennessee.

(Franklin and Nashville).

November 14, 1864—January 23, 1865.

After the evacuation of Atlanta the Confederate forces retreated into northern Alabama, and from that point continued operations against the Union line of communications from Nashville to Chattanooga and to Atlanta, attacking at various points. The commanding Confederate army however pushed somewhat northwest from Atlanta, and marching northward crossed the Tennessee river in the neighborhood of Huntsville, Ala., and into Tennessee about Columbia. There were numerous raids by the Confederate cavalry under General Wheeler and under General Forrest into middle Tennessee, and a number of minor engagements took place, among them the famous one at Allatoona, Georgia, October 5, 1864.

Gen. Sherman on the 15th of November started with his army from Atlanta, on the famous "March to the Sea" and the duty of gathering an army with which to meet the invasion of Tennessee by Confederates under Hood was assigned to Maj. Gen. George H. Thomas.

For the organizations under Gen. Thomas see 93 Rebellion Records, 90-106. This includes of Wisconsin troops the Eighth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, (Co. E.) Twentfourth and Thirty-third Infantry, and battalions of the Fortyfourth and Forty-fifth Infantry. Sixth Light Artillery.

WISCONSIN MILITARY ORGANIZATIONS

Organized and Mustered into the Service of the United States During the Civil War, 1861-1865.

First Infantry. (Three months.)

The first regiment of Wisconsin Volunteers was organized at Camp Scott, Milwaukee, April 27, 1861, in response to the call of President Lincoln under date of April, 14, 1861, for seventy-five thousand men. The First left the State on the 9th day of June, proceeding under orders to Harrisburg, Penn., soon thereafter was transferred to Hagerstown, Maryland, and assigned to the division of the Union Army commanded by Major General Patterson. In the advance on Martinsburg, West Virginia, it participated in the battle of Falling Waters July 2, 1861, losing one man killed and five wounded and one prisoner.¹

NOTE.—These sketches are intended to enable the reader of the history of the Civil War to ascertain the period of service and the department or State or Territory in which the Wisconsin organization served about which information is sought. To illustrate—

Suppose one is reading an account of the battle of Gettysburg; naturally a citizen of Wisconsin would desire to know what Wisconsin troops took part in that battle. By turning to the list of battles (page 26) the name of the organizations participating in the battle will be found. If farther information is desired, turn to the Campaign of Gettysburg; (page 81) there will be found an appropriate reference to the official documents to be consulted. These documents give a full account of that great struggle from the military side.

The reader desiring information as to other battles and campaigns in which Wisconsin organizations participated can consult these sketches and the reference made therein, which are intended to be a brief index to the complete printed record, particularly as the same relates to Wisconsin troops.

The term of service for which the men enlisted having expired, the First returned to Camp Scott, Milwaukee, and was mustered out of the military service of United States on August 21, 1861.

First Infantry. (Three years.)

A week after the muster out of the First Infantry (three months) orders were received to reorganize the regiment for a term of enlistment for three years. This work proceeded rapidly under the supervision of Col. John C. Starkweather at Camp Scott, Milwaukee and on the 19th of October, 1861, the First was mustered into the service of the United States.

On the 28th of October the regiment left the state under orders to report at Louisville, Kentucky. Thereafter, and for the full period of its service, the First was actively engaged in the several campaigns in and across Middle Kentucky and Tennessee and Northern Georgia, including the Atlantic Campaign of 1864 under Gen. Sherman. During 1862 the command to which the First was assigned took part in several minor engagements and long marches and took part in the battle of Perryville or Chaplin Hills, Kentucky, October 8, 1862; Stone's River or Murfreesboro, Tennessee, December 30-31, 1862 and January 1, 1863. The Tullahoma Campaign as a part of the army of the Cumberland, Gen. Rosecrans commanding, June 23-July 7, 1863. Was actively engaged in the battle of Chickamauga, Georgia, September 19-20, 1863; at Missionary Ridge, Tennessee, November 25, 1863. On the 2nd of May, 1864, the First joined Sherman's Army in the advance on Atlanta, as a part of the Third Brigade First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, Army of the Cumberland, and with this command participated in Northern Georgia in the battles of Rocky Face Ridge, May 8-11, 1864; Resaca, May 14-15, 1864; Dallas, May 26-June 1, 1864; Chattahoochie, July 5-17, 1864; Peach Tree Creek, July 20, 1864; Atlanta, July 22, 1864, and Jonesborough, August 31-September 1, 1864.

The term of service of the regiment being about to expire, on the 16th of September 1864 orders were received from the War Department to transfer the veterans who had re-enlisted and these recruits whose term of service had not expired to the Twenty-first Infantry. This transfer of 368 men was completed and on the 21st of September the regiment left for Nashville, Tenn., where they encamped until the 6th of October, when they left for Milwaukee and were disbanded at Camp Washburn, October 21st, 1864.

Second Infantry.

The Second regiment of Infantry was first organized under the call for volunteers for three months service. The full number of troops under this call having been accepted, the Second was mustered, June 11, 1861, into the service of the United States for "Three years or during the war" under the call of the President, dated May 3, 1861, for "500,000 men." The organization left the State on June 20, and arrived in Washington, D. C. June 25, 1861. From this date until the regiment was mustered out, the Second Infantry served in that part of the Union Army known as the Army of Virginia and the "Army of the Potomac." In July 1861 the Second was brigaded with three New York regiments of Infantry, the whole under command of Colonel—and later General—William T. Sherman, and in this organization participated in the battle of Bull Run, Va. July 21, 1861. On the 27th of August 1861 the regiment was assigned to the brigade under the command of Brig. Gen. Rufus King, which brigade became subsequently known as the "Iron Brigade." With that brigade the Second participated in all the historic battles fought by the Army of the Potomac until May 11, 1864. After the battle of Laurel Hill the Second having become reduced to less than 100 men present for duty, was permanently detached from the brigade and was thereafter assigned to duty as provost guard of the Fourth Division of the Fifth Army Corps, of which the Iron Brigade was at that time a part, and following the march of that division crossed the North Anna River on the 21st inst. arriving on the 6th of June on the Chickahominy, Virginia, where the regiment remained until the expiration of its term of service. On the morning of June 11, 1864, the Second started for Wisconsin, except those members who had re-enlisted, and recruits whose term of service had not expired. The Second reached Madison on the 18th of June and was mustered out of the military service of the United States on the 2nd day of July, 1864.

The principal battles in which the Second Infantry took part are:

Bull Run, Va., July 21, 1861.	Gettysburg, Pa., July 1-3, 1863.
Gainesville, Va., August 28, 1862.	Mine Run, Va., Nov. 28-30, 1863.
Second Bull Run, Va., Aug. 30, 1862.	Wilderness, Va., May 5-7, 1864.
South Mountain, Md., Sept. 14, 1862.	Spotsylvania Court House, Va., May 8-21, 1864.
Antietam, Md., Sept. 16-17, 1862.	North Anna River, Va., May 10, 1864.
Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11-15, 1862.	Totopotomoy River, Va., May 28-31, 1864.
Fitzhugh's Crossing, April 29, 1863.	Cold Harbor, Va., June 1-4, 1864.
Chancellorsville, Va., May 1-3, 1863.

Second Infantry. Independent Battalion.

At the time the term of service of the Second Infantry expired there were members of that regiment who had re-enlisted for three years or during the war, and recruits who had joined the regiment at various times during its term of service, whose term of enlistment had not expired. These men were, on the 11th day of June, 1864, organized as an independent battalion of two companies and assigned to duty as provost guard of the Fourth Division of the Fifth Army Corps, and continued in the service in the advance upon Petersburg under different assignments with the Corps until the 30th of November, 1864, when the Battalion was transferred to the Sixth Infantry as Companies "G" and "H", of that regiment with which organization the remnant of the Second Infantry was connected until the muster out of service of the Sixth, July 16, 1865.

Third Infantry.

The Third regiment of Infantry was organized at Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 29th day of June, 1861. The regiment left the State on the 12th day of July following, reporting at Hagerstown, Maryland, from which point it marched to Harper's Ferry. Shortly thereafter the Third was assigned to Patterson's Army and its first year of service was principally upon the upper Potomac and in the Shenandoah valley, participating in a number of engagements, the most important of which were Winchester and Cedar Mountain. When the Union army under General Pope was being pressed northward by the Confederates in August, 1862, the portion of the army in which the Third was serving was united with the army under General Pope, and shortly thereafter General McClellan assigned as Commander in Chief, and as a part of this force the Third participated in the battle of Antietam. In the early part of 1863, with the Army of the Potomac, participated in the campaign of Chancellorsville, Va., and the subsequent battle of Gettysburg, July 1-3, 1863.

On July 13, 1863, the Third was sent to the city of New York to assist in quelling the draft riots in that city, and encamped in the City Hall park until September 5, when the regiment returned to Virginia. In the latter part of that month the Twelfth Corps, of which the Third was a part, was transferred to southern middle Tennessee as a part of the Army of the Cumberland. The Third was stationed at Stevenson, Ala., from the 3rd day of October, and during the latter part of that year and the early part of 1864 was engaged in guarding important lines of railroad communications in southern middle Tennessee and northern Alabama. On the reorganization of the Army about Chattanooga for the advance upon Atlanta under General Sherman, the Third was assigned to the Second Brigade of the First Division of the Twentieth Army Corps commanded by General Joseph Hooker, and as a part of this organization participated in the Atlanta Campaign from Chattanooga to Atlanta, May 1 to September 8, 1864; the "March to the Sea", Atlanta to Savannah, November 15 to December 21, 1864, and from Savannah through the Carolinas, January 1 to April 26, 1865, until the surrender of the Confederate forces under General Johnston April 26, 1865. Thereafter the Third participated in the Grand Review at Washington. On June 15 was transferred to Louisville, Ky., was mustered out of the service of the United States on the 18 of July, 1865, returned to Madison, Wis. on the 23 of July and was shortly thereafter disbanded.

The principal battles in which the Third participated are Fourth Infantry.

The Fourth regiment of Infantry was organized and mustered into the service of the United States on from 1-19 day of July, 1861, and thereafter, on the 1st of September, 1863, transferred to and organized as a regiment of cavalry.

For sketch of Regiment see FOURTH CAVALRY.

Fifth Infantry.

The Fifth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on July 13, 1861. The Regiment left the State on the 24th of the same month going directly to Washington, D. C. Was assigned to General King's Brigade then in camp on Meridian Hill in the suburbs of Washington. Shortly thereafter was transferred and permanently attached to General Hancock's Brigade, remaining in the defenses of Washington until March, 1862, when that part of the army of the Potomac then under the command of General George B. McClellan and to which the Fifth belonged, was transferred to the vicinity of Hampton, Virginia, as a part of the forces to take part in what is known as the Peninsular Campaign, March 17 to September 2, 1862. During the campaign the Fifth participated in many sanguinary engagements. In the latter part of August the regiment returned to Centerville, Virginia, to assist in the support of that part of the Union Army then under the command of General Pope. In the retreat of the Union forces which followed, and the invasion of Maryland by the Confederates, known as the Maryland Campaign, the Fifth participated in the battle of Antietam.

During its whole term of service the Fifth was a part of the Army of the Potomac of the famous Sixth Corps, and took part in the various campaigns in Virginia, including Gettysburg, The Wilderness, Petersburg, Shenandoah Valley, Richmond and Appomattox. Subsequently the Fifth was transferred to Louisville, Ky., where the regiment was mustered out of the service, returned to Madison, Wis., and was disbanded on the 20th of July, 1865. The principal battles in which the Fifth participated are:

Yorktown, Va., April 5-May 4, 1862.	Gettysburg, Pa., July 1-3, 1863.
Williamsburg, Va., May 5, 1862.	Rappahannock Station, Nov. 7-8, 1862.
Golding's Farm, Va., June 28, 1862.	Wilderness, Va., May 5-7, 1864.
Savage Station, Va., June 29, 1862.	Spotsylvania, Va., May 8-21, 1864.
White Oak Swamp, June 22-23, 1862.	Cold Harbor, Va., June 27, 1864.
Malvern Hill, Va., July 1, 1862.	Petersburg, Va., Sept. 19, 1864.
Antietam, Md., Sept. 16-17, 1862.	Opequon, Va., Sept. 19, 1864.
Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11-15, 1862.	Fall of Petersburg, Va., April 3, 1865.
Marye's Heights, Va., May 3, 1863.	Sailor's Creek, Va., April 6, 1865.
Chancellorsville, Va., May 3-5, 1863.

Sixth Infantry.

The Sixth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on July 16, 1861. The regiment left the State on July 28, reaching Washington, D. C., August 7, 1861, and going into camp in the suburbs of that city. Shortly thereafter the Sixth was attached to General King's Brigade, which subsequently became known as the "Iron Brigade of the West". From that time until March, 1862, the regiment served in the defenses of Washington, and thereafter in all the campaigns of the Army of the Potomac except the Peninsular Campaign until the surrender at Appomattox. In March, 1862, the First Corps was organized and the Iron Brigade assigned thereto. With this Corps the regiment and the Second and Seventh Infantry served until March, 1864, when the organization was discontinued, and the Iron Brigade transferred to the Fifth Corps, with which it was subsequently identified. The principal battles in which the Sixth participated are:

Gainesville, Va., Aug. 28, 1862.	North Anna, Va., May 10, 1864.
Second Bull Run, Va., Aug. 30, 1862.	Totopotomy, Va., May 28-31, 1864.
South Mountain, Md., Sept. 14, 1862.	Cold Harbor, Va., June 1-3, 1864.
Antietam, Md., Sept. 16-17, 1862.	Petersburg, Va., June 15-18, 1864.
Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11-15, 1862.	Weldon Railroad, Va., Aug. 18-21, 1864.
Fitzhugh's Crossing, April 29, 1863.	Hatcher's Run, Va., Feb. 5-7, 1865.
Chancellorsville, Va., May 1-3, 1863.	(March 31, 1865.)
Gettysburg, Pa., July 1-3, 1863.	Dabney's Mill, Va., Feb. 5-7, 1865.
Mine Run, Va., Nov. 28-30, 1863.	Gravelly Run, Va., March 31, 1865.
Wilderness, Va., May 5-7, 1864.	Five Forks, Va., April 1, 1865.
Spotsylvania, Va., May 9-12, 1864.

The Sixth took part in the Grand Review at Washington, and shortly thereafter was, with other regiments of the Army of the Potomac, transferred to Louisville, Kentucky, where it was mustered out of the service of the United States July 14, 1865, and disbanded at Madison July 16, 1865.

Seventh Infantry.

The Seventh regiment of infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 16th of September, 1861, leaving the State on the 21st and reaching Washington, D. C., October 1, 1861. It joined General King's command, the same brigade to which the Sixth had heretofore been assigned, and continued in the same brigade, division and corps with the Sixth until the surrender of the Confederates under General Lee to the Union Army commanded by Gen. Grant, April 9, 1865, serving in all the campaigns fought by the Army of the Potomac except the Peninsular Campaign.

The Seventh participated in the battles of Gainesville, Va., Aug. 28, 1862.	Spotsylvania, Va., May 9-12, 1864.

Second Bull Run, Va., Aug. 30, 1862.	North Anna, Va., May 10, 1864.
South Mountain, Md., Sept. 14, 1862.	Totopotomy, Va., May 28-31, 1864.
Antietam, Md., Sept. 16-17, 1862.	Cold Harbor, Va., June 1-3, 1864.
Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11-15, 1862.	Petersburg, Va., June 15-18, 1864.
Fitzhugh's Crossing, Va., April 29, 1863.	Weldon Railroad, Va., Aug. 18-21, 1864.
Chancellorsville, Va., May 1-3, 1863.	Hatcher's Run, Va., Feb. 5-7, 1865. (March 31, 1865)
Gettysburg, Pa., July 1-3, 1863.	Dabney's Mill, Va., Feb. 5-7, 1865.
Mine Run, Va., Nov. 28-30, 1863.	Gravelly Run, Va., March 31, 1865.
Wilderness, Va., May 5-7, 1864.	Five Forks, Va., April 1, 1865.

The Seventh took part in the Grand Review at Washington and shortly thereafter was, with other regiments of the Army of the Potomac, transferred to Louisville, Ky., where it was mustered out of the service of the United States July 3, 1865, returned to Madison, Wisconsin, July 5, 1865, and was disbanded.

Eighth Infantry.

The Eighth regiment of Infantry, known as the Eagle Regiment, was mustered into the service of the United States September 13, 1861, at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin. Leaving the State on the 12th of October in the same year, proceeded to Pilot Knob, Missouri, and was shortly thereafter assigned to duty with various expeditions, and engaged in actions in Southeast Missouri prior to the siege of Island No. 10, March 15 to April 8, 1862. While campaigning the Eighth took part in the battle of Fredericktown, Mo., October 21, 1861. In the latter part of April, 1862, the Eighth was transferred to Corinth, Miss., and participated in the various movements connected with the siege of Corinth and in the battles of Farmington, Miss., May 9, 1862, and Corinth October 3-4, 1862. In November of the same year an army under General Grant was collected at Grand Junction, Tenn., to advance overland on Vicksburg—what was known as the Central Mississippi Campaign. After the destruction of the store of supplies which had been accumulated at Holly Springs, December 20, 1862, the plan of General Grant was somewhat changed, and operations were thereafter conducted from Memphis on the river. The Eighth reached Young's Point, La., March 29, 1863, and continued actively engaged until the surrender of Vicksburg July 4, 1863, participating in many of the battles prior to the siege. After the fall of Vicksburg it participated in several minor expeditions in northern Mississippi and Louisiana, and was a part of the forces accompanying the Meridian, Miss., Campaign March 10-May 22, 1864, and the Red River, La., Campaign March 10-May 22, 1864. In November of 1864 was with the forces sent in pursuit of the Confederates under General Price through Arkansas and Missouri. In the latter part of November was transferred to Nashville, Tenn., a part of the re-enforcement of the Union Army under General Thomas, and participated in the battle of Nashville December 15-16, 1864—and the pursuit of Hood to the Tennessee River which followed. Took part in many minor expeditions until February, when the regiment was transferred to New Orleans and attached to the forces which were making the campaign for the reduction of the Confederate defenses at Mobile. Participated in the siege of Spanish Fort and Fort Blakely March 27-April 8, 1865, and in the assault and capture of Fort Blakely April 9 and occupation of Mobile April 11. After the Mobile campaign, the Eighth remained in central Alabama during the summer until the 5th of September, when it was mustered out of the service and proceeding to Madison was disbanded.

Among the actions the regiment participated in are:

Fredericktown, Mo., Oct. 21, 1861.	Vicksburg, Miss., May 22, 1863.
New Madrid, Mo., Feb. 28-April 8, 1862.	Mechanicsburg, Miss., May 26-June 4, 1863.
Island No. 10, Feb. 28-April 8, 1862.
Farmington, Miss., May 9, 1862.	Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 15-16, 1864.
Corinth, Miss., Oct. 3-4, 1862.	Spanish Ft., Mobile, Ala., March 26, 1865.
Jackson, Miss., May 14, 1863.	Ft. Blakely, Mobile, Ala., April 9, 1865.

and a large number of minor engagements which involved contact with the enemy as will be seen by reference to the chronological list.

Ninth Infantry.

The Ninth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Sigel, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States October 26, 1861, leaving the State January 22, 1862, proceeding to Fort Leavenworth, Kans. which place was reached on the 29th of the same month. On the 2nd of March the regiment, together with other portions of the Army in that territory, participated in various movements on the Frontier until the 30th of September, when the Ninth was engaged in the battle at Newtonia, Mo. On the 27th of November the Division of which the Ninth was a part, advanced into Arkansas and was a part of the Union force present, but not actively engaged, at the battle of Prairie Grove, December 7, 1862.

The Ninth participated in numerous expeditions during 1863 and 1864 in Arkansas, including the Camden Expedition March 23-May 3, 1864, under General Steele, taking part in the battle of Jenkin's Ferry, Ark., April 30, 1864, and a large number of minor engagements. (see list)

The service of the regiment was chiefly rendered in Arkansas and Missouri, which included skirmishes, guarding of rail-ways and frequent long and arduous marches and expeditions in various directions. The Ninth was mustered out January 30, 1866, and was disbanded at Madison, Wisconsin, February 14, 1866.

Tenth Infantry.

The Tenth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Holton, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on October 14, 1861, leaving the State

November 9, arriving at Louisville, Kentucky, November 11, was at once sent to guard the line of the Louisville & Nashville Railway and engaging in this service until February 1862, when the Tenth participated in the general southern movement of the Union forces which reached south as far as Huntsville, Alabama; and who shortly thereafter were compelled to retrace their steps north through Middle Tennessee and Kentucky until the hostile forces met in combat at Chaplin Hills or Perryville, Ky., October 8, 1862, in which engagement the Tenth participated. This was followed by another march southward by the Union forces which the Tenth accompanied, and the hostile armies again engaged in battle at Stone's River or Murfreesboro, Tenn., December 30-31, 1862 to January 1, 1863. After this engagement the Tenth was assigned to duty guarding railways until the latter part of June, and joined with the forces under Gen. Rosecrans in the Tullahoma Campaign June 23 to July 7, 1863, a part of the Army of the Cumberland. This was followed by the advance on Chattanooga and the hostile forces again met at Chickamauga, Ga., September 19-20, 1863. A little later in the year the Tenth participated in the battle of Missionary Ridge November 25, 1863, and from February, 22 to 27, 1864 participated in the demonstration on Tunnel Hill and Buzzard Roost, Ga.

On May 24th the Tenth again rejoined its division and as a part of the Fourteenth Army Corps took part in the Atlanta Campaign, participating in the battle of Dallas, Ga., May 13, 1864, the actions at and about Kenesaw Mountain June 10 to July 3, 1864, and Peach Tree Creek July 20, 1864.

In October the time for which the regiment had enlisted having expired, the recruits whose terms had not expired were transferred to the Twenty-first Infantry, and the Tenth left Marietta, Ga., for Wisconsin October 16, reaching Milwaukee on the 25th inst. and was mustered out and disbanded.

Eleventh Infantry.

The Eleventh regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on October 16, 1861. It left the State on the 20 of November, proceeding directly to St. Louis, and was at once assigned to service patrolling and guarding rail ways. The regiment continued in this line of duty until March 1862, when with other Union forces it participated in a number of expeditions into Northern Arkansas and Southern Missouri and took part in the actions at Bayou Cache, Ark., July 7, 1862.

The winter of 1862-1863 was spent in Southern Missouri, occupied principally in patrol duty and guarding railways and other lines of communication. On the 11th of March, 1863, the Eleventh moved to Memphis, Tennessee, and thence down the Mississippi River to Milliken's Bend, La., occupying different positions. As a part of Grant's forces the regiment crossed to the east side of the Mississippi below Vicksburg on April 30, and moved forward at once and took part in the battle at Port Gibson, Miss., on the 1 day of May, 1863. Was next engaged in the battles of Champion's Hill, May 16, and Black River Bridge, Miss., May 17, 1863, and took part in the siege of Vicksburg which followed May 19 to July 4, 1863. After the surrender of Vicksburg the Eleventh participated in the Jackson Campaign, Miss., July 5-25, 1863. In August following under orders it proceeded to Southern Louisiana and was assigned to the Thirteenth Army Corps and participated with this organization in the operations in the Teche Country, Louisiana, October 3 to November 30, 1863. In the latter part of November the Eleventh was a part of the force engaged in an expedition to Brazos Santiago, Texas, about six hundred miles west of New Orleans. Returning to Brashear City—now Morgan City, La.—the Regiment continued in active service until February 26, 1865, when it was assigned to the force sent to capture Mobile, Ala. Here the Eleventh participated in the siege of Spanish Fort, March 26 to April 8, 1865, the assault and capture of Ft. Blakely April 9, 1865, and the occupation of Mobile, April 12. During the summer following the Eleventh was engaged in guard duty in Southern Alabama, and was mustered out of service on the 4th of September and proceeded to Madison and was disbanded September 28, 1865.

Twelfth Infantry.

The Twelfth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, in October and November 1861, and left the State January 11, 1862, proceeding to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where it remained in active service until the latter part of May, leaving on the 29th of that month for Columbus, Kentucky, which point was reached June 2, 1862, and thereafter the Twelfth was a part of the army of the Tennessee. Here the Twelfth was assigned to the duty of guarding railways and in accompanying expeditions, including the expedition to Coldwater River, Miss., April 18-24, 1863. Took part in action at Hernando, Miss., April 18, 1863. On the 11 of May it embarked at Memphis, Tenn., for Vicksburg, Miss., and joined in the line of investment of and siege of Vicksburg, June 11, remaining in the trenches until the surrender of that place July 4, 1863. Participated in the Jackson, Miss. Campaign July 5-25, 1863, and returned to Vicksburg. On the 15 of August embarked for Natchez, Miss., where the regiment remained until November 22 and from this place as a center participated in various expeditions. Took part in the Meridian Expedition February 3-March 6, 1864, and joined the Army of the Tennessee with General Sherman's forces near Acworth, Ga., June 8, 1864, and continued with that Army throughout the Atlanta, the Savannah Campaign and the Campaign in the Carolinas, serving with this command until the surrender of Johnston, April 26, 1865. Took part in the Grand Review at Washington, D. C.

In addition to the actions above mentioned and many minor engagements, the Twelfth participated in the battle of Atlanta, July 21, 1864, and Jonesborough, Ga. August 31-September 1, 1864.

The Twelfth was designated as one of the "Marching Regiments", its service began with many miles of marching in Kansas, thence transferred to Western Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi and finally with Gen. Sherman. It is claimed that the regiment marched 3,838 miles, traveled by railroad 2,506 miles, by steamboat 3,159 miles, a total of 9,503 miles.

After the Grand Review, the regiment was sent to Louisville, Ky. where it went into camp. Was mustered out of service July 16, returned to Madison, Wisconsin, and was disbanded August 9, 1865.

Thirteenth Infantry.

The Thirteenth regiment of Infantry was organized at Janesville, Wisconsin and mustered into the service of the United States on the 17 of October 1861. It left the State January 18, 1862 under orders to proceed to Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, which place it reached early in February. The regiment was at once detailed for active service, and on February 7 marched to Ft. Riley, New Mexico, and was on duty in that vicinity until the 28 of April, when it returned to St. Louis and was assigned to guard duty east of the Mississippi river on the lines of railway between Columbus, Kentucky, and Corinth, Mississippi. On August 25 was transferred to Ft. Henry on the Tennessee River and participated in various expeditions in middle Kentucky and Tennessee during the greater part of the year 1862. In February and March, 1863, the Thirteenth was stationed at Ft. Donelson on the Cumberland River; in September at Stevenson, Alabama, and later in the year and until February 1864 at Nashville, Tenn.

The general work of the Thirteenth during its long term of service was the protection of lines of communication in middle Tennessee and Kentucky and Northern Alabama. This is a service which must be diligently and faithfully performed if the army at the front is to do the work assigned to it. In June 1865 the Thirteenth was sent to New Orleans and in July of that year into Texas near the Rio Grande, where the regiment remained on duty at various posts until November 24, 1865, when orders were received to proceed to Madison, Wisconsin, which place was reached December 23, and the Thirteenth disbanded December 26, 1865.

Fourteenth Infantry.

The Fourteenth regiment of Infantry was organized at Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on January 30, 1862. It left the State

March 8 and reported to General Grant at Savannah, Tennessee, March 28, 1862. Went into camp. On the 6 moved to Pittsburg Landing. On the 7 of April the Fourteenth was engaged in the conflict at that place, now generally known as the battle of Shiloh. After the battle the Fourteenth remained at Pittsburg Landing as provost guard, participating in numerous expeditions against the enemy, and in the battle of Corinth October 3-4, 1862.

In November following the Fourteenth joined the forces concentrating at Grand Junction, Tenn. for an advance on Vicksburg. After the destruction by the Confederates of the army stores collected at Holly Springs the Fourteenth, with other forces, participated in several expeditions in S. W. Tennessee, moving to Memphis, Tenn. January 13, 1863; and on the 17 embarked down the River to join the force operating against Vicksburg. On the 13 of May crossed the river below Vicksburg and participated in the movements of the Union forces, and on the 19 took position in the trenches in the rear of Vicksburg and continued to take part in the siege of that place until July 4, when the Confederates surrendered. On the 14 of July following, it accompanied Ransom's Brigade, participating in the capture of Natchez, Miss. and remaining at that place until October, when the regiment returned to Vicksburg. In March 1864, the Fourteenth joined the forces assigned to the Red River Expedition, March 10-May 22, 1864, and participating in numerous minor engagements in which that command was engaged. In July following was a part of the forces accompanying the expedition to Tupelo, Miss., July 5-21, 1864, and participated in the engagements July 13, 14 and 15. After the return from that district was assigned to active service in northern Arkansas.

In November 1864 the regiment was transferred to Nashville, Tenn., reaching that place November 30, and took part in the battle of Nashville, December 15-16, 1864. After that battle the Fourteenth was engaged in the pursuit of the Confederates until the latter part of January, 1865, when the Regiment was transferred to New Orleans and assigned to a position in the Sixteenth Army Corps, and with this force took part in the Mobile Campaign, March 17-May 4, 1865, and the investment and capture of Spanish Fort March 27-April 8, 1865.

Co. E. and members of other companies became detached from the regiment in March 1864 and attached to Leggett's division of the 17 Army Corps, and with this organization participated in the Atlanta, Savannah and campaign in the Carolinas and the Grand Review in Washington, D. C., May 24, 1865, rejoining the regiment in Alabama, July 16, 1865.

Thereafter the Fourteenth remained doing guard duty in Alabama until October 1865, and was mustered out and reached Madison, Wisconsin, October 22, 1865, and was there discharged from the military service.

Fifteenth Infantry.

The Fifteenth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 14 day of February, 1862. It left the State on March 2, 1862, reaching Bird's Point, Mo., opposite Cairo, and on the 14 took its place in line with the forces investing Island No. 10, and remained until the end of the siege. (Siege of Island No. 10, February 28–April 8, 1862). Soon after the surrender of the Confederate forces at this point the Fifteenth was transferred to Tennessee, and the subsequent service of that regiment was rendered in middle Kentucky, middle Tennessee and northern Georgia.

In the summer of 1862 it participated in many of the movements of the Union forces, and in the course of the campaign met the enemy at Perryville, Ky. (or Chaplin Hills) Ky. and took part in the battle at that place October 8, 1862. With the Union forces pursued the retreating Confederates and reached Nashville, Tenn. about the middle of November. About the 26 of the following December, as a part of the Army of the Cumberland, took part in the movement toward Murfreesboro, Tenn. and participated in the battle of Stone's River or Murfreesboro, December 30 and 31, 1862, and January 1, 1863.

Thereafter the Fifteenth was continuously in service in various expeditions, in middle Tennessee and with the Army of the Cumberland under Gen. Rosecrans took part in the Tullahoma Campaign, June 23 to July 7, 1863, and in the advance into Northern Georgia near Chattanooga. Participated in the battle of Chickamauga, Ga., September 19-20, and in the subsequent battle of Missionary Ridge, Chattanooga, Tenn., November 25, 1863, followed by service in the campaign to relieve the forces under Gen. Burnside at Knoxville, Tenn. Returning to the vicinity of Chattanooga the regiment joined Sherman's Army, May 5, 1864, and participated in the Atlanta Campaign, May 1-September 8, 1864. Taking part in the battles of Resaca, May 14, 1864; Dalton, May 26, 1864; Kennesaw Mountain, June 23, 1864; Atlanta, July 22, 1864, and Jonesborough, September 1, 1864.

After the conclusion of the Atlanta Campaign the Fifteenth returned to Chattanooga where most of the companies were mustered out of service of the United States in December owing to the expiration of the term for which the men had enlisted. Two companies, A & E, remained at that place until the 13 of February, 1865, when these companies were mustered out. A portion of the men whose term of service had not at that time expired were transferred to the Twenty-fourth Infantry, and subsequently upon the muster out of that regiment to the Thirteenth Infantry, with which regiment these men served until muster out of service of the Thirteenth.

Sixteenth Infantry.

The Sixteenth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and muster into the service of the United States completed on the 31 of January, 1862. The Sixteenth left the State March 13, and reached Pittsburg Landing, Tenn., March 20, where it disembarked and went into camp. On the 6 and 7 of April it participated in the battle of Shiloh, being one of the first regiments to be attacked. Later the Sixteenth took part in the siege of Corinth, Miss., April 29-June 10, 1862, and in the battle of Corinth, October 3-4, 1862. Was a part of the Union forces to gather at Grand Junction, Tenn. for the advance on Vicksburg, Miss. The latter part of January the Sixteenth embarked at Memphis and moved down the river to Lake Providence, La., where a landing was made February 1, 1863. From this place and Red Bone Church, Miss., the Sixteenth was engaged in guard duty and minor expeditions until February, 1864, when it returned to Vicksburg.

On the 8 of June, 1864, the regiment joined Sherman's army near Acworth, Ga., and moved to the front and participated in the movements of the Army of the Tennessee until the surrender of Atlanta. Participated in the battles of Atlanta, Ga., July 21, 1864; Jonesborough, Ga., September 1, 1864; Lovejoy Station, Ga., September 2, 1864. November 15, 1864 it accompanied Sherman's Army on the "March to the Sea" entering Savannah, Ga., December 21, 1864.

In the early part of January, with the army of the Tennessee to which it belonged, it started on the campaign in the Carolinas and took part therein until the surrender of Johnston, April 26, 1865. Participated actively in many of the minor engagements of that campaign and in the battle of Bentonville, N. C., March 19-21, 1865. After the surrender of Johnston the Sixteenth marched to Washington and participated in the Grand Review and thereafter went into camp near that city. Here a small portion of the men whose terms had expired were mustered out and the regiment was transferred to Louisville, Ky., where it remained until mustered out July 12—returning to Madison, Wisconsin, and was disbanded August 1, 1865.

Seventeenth Infantry.

The Seventeenth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 15 day of March, 1862. The regiment left the State March 23, going directly to St. Louis, and from there on April 10 to Pittsburg Landing, Tennessee, disembarking there on the 14 day of April. It took part in the advance on Corinth and the siege which followed April 29 to June 10, 1862, and in the Battle of Corinth October 3-4, 1862. Early in November it reported at Grand Junction, Tenn., to take part in the advance upon Vicksburg which was contemplated, and until January was actively engaged in various movements in western Tennessee. The latter part of the month it proceeded to Memphis, Tenn., embarked down the Missisissippi River reaching Young's Point, La., on the 25 of January, 1863; encamped there and at Lake Providence, and on May 12 crossed the River at Grand Gulf, joining the army under Grant which was actively engaged in the campaign. Taking part in the battle of Champion's Hill, May 16, and on the 19 of May took its place in the trenches at the beginning of the siege of Vicksburg, May 19-July 4, 1863, and participated therein until the surrender.

On the 14 of July with other troops it proceeded to and occupied Natchez, Miss., where the Seventeenth remained until the latter part of October 1863, when it returned to Vicksburg. During its stay at Natchez it participated in a large number of scouting expeditions and skirmishes.

On the 5 of May, 1864, the Seventeenth was assigned to the Third Brigade, Third Division of the Seventeenth Army Corps Army of the Tennessee, of Sherman's Army, and as a part of such organization participated in the Atlanta Campaign, May 1 to September 8, 1864. Participating in the battles of Kennesaw Mountain, Chattahoochee River, Jonesborough and Lovejoy Station. Also in the "March to the Sea", November 15 to December 21, and in the Campaign of the Carolinas, January 1 to April 26, 1865. The Seventeenth participated in the Grand Review at Washington, May 24, 1865, and was sent to Louisville, Ky., and at that place was mustered out on July 14, 1865. The regiment reached Madison on the 17 of July, and was soon thereafter disbanded.

Eighteenth Infantry.

The Eighteenth regiment of Infantry was organized at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 15 day of March, 1862. It left the State March 30, and disembarked at Pittsburg Landing, Tenn., April 5, 1862, and at once moved to the front. The battle opened early next morning and the Eighteenth shared the varying fortunes of the brigade to which it had been assigned during the battle of Shiloh, April 6-7, 1862. After the battle the Eighteenth participated in the advance on and seige of Corinth, Miss., April 29 to June 10, 1862, and the battle of Corinth, October 3-4, 1862. Thereafter it was engaged in various expeditions preceding the assembling of the Union forces at Grand Junction in November preparatory to the advance on Vicksburg; and after the change of plans the Eighteenth marched to Memphis, from which place it embarked down the Mississippi reaching Young's Point, La. on January 25, 1863. Later the men were employed on the canal which was dug to enable Grant's army to pass below Vicksburg. Crossing the Mississippi river below Vicksburg the regiment reported to General McPherson at Raymond, Miss., on May 13, and moving with the Union forces took part in the battle of Jackson, Miss., May 14, which was soon thereafter followed by the battle at Champion's Hill, May 16, and Black River Bridge, May 17, 1863.

Soon thereafter it took its position in the trenches encompassing Vicksburg, where it remained until the surrender. (Siege of Vicksburg, May 19-July 4, 1863).

After the surrender the Eighteenth remained in the vicinity of Vicksburg doing guard and fatigue duty until September. Thereupon was transferred to Memphis, Tenn., thence to Corinth, Miss. Here the Union forces were assembled to assist in the relief of Chattanooga. The Eighteenth as a part of the Fifteenth Army Corps, after a march of about two hundred fifty miles with these forces under General Sherman, reached Chattanooga, and on November 24 crossed the Tennessee river and participated in the attack on Missionary Ridge November 25. Thereafter the Eighteenth was assigned to the work of protecting the lines of communication. Assigned at times to Huntsville, Stevenson, Ala., Chattanooga, Tenn., and Allatoona, Ga., and south of Chattanooga on the road to Atlanta, with headquarters at Allatoona. In the attack on that place October 5, 1864, the Eighteenth was actively engaged in the famous defense. A portion of the regiment accompanied General Sherman on the Savannah and Carolina Campaigns. That portion remaining in Tennessee joined the detachment accompanying General Sherman at Goldsboro, N. C., the latter part of March 1865.

After the surrender of the Confederates under General Johnston April 26, 1865, the Eighteenth participated in the Grand Review at Washington, D. C. Was transferred to Louisville, Ky., as a part of the Provisional Division, where the regiment remained until mustered out July 18. Returned to Madison, Wis., and was disbanded July 29, 1865.

Nineteenth Infantry.

The organization of the Nineteenth regiment of Infantry was commenced at Racine, Wisconsin, in December 1861, and continued until the 20 of April, 1862, when the regiment was transferred to Camp Randall to guard rebel prisoners, and the organization perfected and the Nineteenth mustered into the service of the United States at that place on the 30 of April 1862. The rebel prisoners having been transferred to Chicago, the Nineteenth left the State June 2, going directly to Washington, D. C., and from there proceeding to Norfolk, Va., where the regiment went into camp on the 6 of June. The next day it commenced service in earnest and from time to time participated in a large number of movements in south-eastern Virginia until October 1862, when its field of operation was transferred to Newburn, N. C., in the vicinity of which the regiment remained until April 1864, when it was recalled to Virginia and assigned to the Eighteenth Army Corps as a part of the army of the James, which it joined on April 28 at Yorktown.

The Nineteenth participated in the movements of the Army of the James against Richmond in 1864-5. The principal engagements were the Assault on Petersburg, June 30, 1864; battle of Fair Oaks, October 27-28, 1864. In December the Eighteenth was transferred to the Twentyfourth corps, participating in the final assault on Petersburg April 3, 1865. On that day the regiment entered Richmond, Va., and was assigned to duty as Provost Guard, remaining there most of that month. Was transferred during the summer to several points in the State on like service until August 9, when the Nineteenth was mustered out of the service of the United States. Returned to Madison on the 15, and was disbanded on the 27 of August, 1865.

Twentieth Infantry.

The Twentieth regiment of Infantry was organized and its final muster into the service of the United States completed at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, on the 23 day of August, 1862. The regiment left the State August 30 and joined General Herron's Brigade at Rollo, Mo., September 6, and was sent on a march to southwestern Missouri, participating in the campaign then being conducted against the Confederates by the Army of the Frontier in southwestern Missouri and northwestern Arkansas. Took part in the battle of Prairie Grove, Ark., December 7, 1862, after which the Twentieth continued in active service in southwestern Missouri until June following, when the regiment was transferred to Vicksburg and took its place in the trenches June 15, 1863, remaining a part of the besieging forces until the surrender July 4, following.

After Vicksburg the regiment was in service on various expeditions in Mississippi and Louisiana, including one to Natchez, Port Hudson and Morganza. Later in the year the Twentieth accompanied the Texas expedition which left New Orleans October 26, 1863, disembarking at Brazos, Santiago, Texas, and going on duty at or near Brownsville, Tex., on the Rio Grande, where it remained until the 1 day of August following. During this time it participated in many expeditions, including a two days excursion across the Rio Grande into Mexico, January 12-14, 1864. Returning to New Orleans in August following the Twentieth formed a portion of the land forces accompanying Admiral Farragut's Expedition against the Confederate forces in Mobile Harbor in August, 1864, the regiment participated with the land forces investing Ft. Morgan until the surrender of that stronghold on August 23, 1864. And continued thereafter with the Union forces in southern Alabama and took part in the investment of Spanish Fort, March 27, to April 8, 1865, and the reduction and capture of Fort Blakely April 9, 1865.

In the latter part of June the Twentieth was situated at Galveston, Tex., where it remained and performed the usual duties of garrison service until mustered out of the service of the United States July 14, 1865. Reached Madison July 30, and was disbanded August 9, 1865.

Twentyfirst Infantry.

The Twentyfirst regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Bragg, Oshkosh, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States September 5, 1862. Leaving the State September 11, proceeded to Covington, Ky. and thence to Louisville. Was assigned to the brigade in which was the First (Wisconsin) Infantry, and served in the division or corps with the First and Tenth Infantry with that organization of the Union forces known as the Army of the Cumberland until the conclusion of the Atlanta Campaign.

In October 1864 the time of enlistment of the First and Tenth Infantry having expired, those members of each of those organizations whose terms had not expired were transferred to the Twentyfirst Infantry, and the First and Tenth mustered out of the service. Until after the Atlanta Campaign the Twentyfirst served in the various campaigns in middle Kentucky and Tennessee and northern Alabama, participating in many battles including the battle of Chaplin Hills or Perryville, October 8, 1862; Stone's River or Murfreesboro, December 30-31, January 1863; the Tullahoma Campaign, June 23 to July 7, 1863; advance on Chattanooga, Chickamauga, September 19-20, 1863, and Missionary Ridge November 25, 1863.

On the 3 of May, 1864, having joined Sherman's Army, the Twentyfirst participated in the movements to Ringgold, Ga. and Buzzard Roost. Was engaged at the battle of Resaca May 15; Kenesaw Mountain June 10-July 3; Peachtree Creek July 20; battle of Atlanta July 21-22; Jonesborough September 1, 1864; On November 15 rejoined Sherman's Army and participated in the "March to the Sea," and in the operations around Savannah, Ga., until the surrender of that place December 21, 1864.

On the 20 of January 1865 with the Fourteenth Army Corps the Twentyfirst left Savannah and participated in the campaign of the Carolinas, January 1-April 26, 1865. After the surrender of the Confederates under Johnston, April 26, 1865, the Twentyfirst marched to Washington, taking part in the Grand Review and going into camp near that city until the 8th of June, when the regiment was mustered out of service, returned to Milwaukee, and was disbanded June 17, 1865.

Twentysecond Infantry.

The Twentysecond regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Utley, Racine, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on September 2, 1862. Left the State on the 16 inst. proceeding to Covington, Kentucky, and was at once assigned to active duty as a part of the various expeditions into central Kentucky in pursuit of the Confederate forces, including expeditions to Lexington and Danville, and into middle Tennessee to Nashville and Franklin.

The Twentysecond first met the enemy in foree at Thompson's Station, March 5, 1863, and on the 25th of the same month were compelled to surrender at Brentwood, Tennessee. An exchange of prisoners having soon thereafter been perfected, the regiment was re-equipped at St. Louis in June and returned to the field of operations about Nashville and Murfreesboro, where the Twentysecond remained until February 1864. In April it was transferred to Chattanooga, and on the 7 of May took position in front of Buzzard Roost. With the Army of the Cumberland served in the Campaign of Atlanta May 1 to September 8, 1864. As a part of such army the Twentysecond participated in various minor engagements, and in the battles of Resaca, Ga., May 14-15, Dalton, Ga., May 13, Kenesaw Mountain Operations June 10-July 3, Peach Tree Creek, Ga., July 20 and Atlanta July 21, 1864.

On November 15 with Sherman's Army it begun the "March to the Sea", which was concluded at Savannah December 21, 1864. With the Union forces the Twentysecond left Savannah January 2, 1865 and participated in the Campaign in the Carolinas, and in the battle at Averasborough, N. C., March 16, 1865, and was present at Bentonville. After the surrender of the Confederates under Gen. J. E. Johnston, April 26, 1865, the Twentysecond marched to Washington and participated in the Grand Review; thereafter camped for a few days in the suburbs of Washington, and was mustered out of the service June 12, 1865. Proceeded to Milwaukee, Wis., where the regiment was soon afterwards disbanded.

Twentythird Infantry.

The Twentythird regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 30 day of August, 1862, leaving the State on September 15 proceeding at once to Covington, Ky., and on arrival there was assigned to active duty, participating in various expeditions against the Confederates in north central Kentucky.

On the 19 of November the regiment embarked from Louisville, Ky., for Memphis, Tenn., disembarking from the latter place for the advance down the river against Vicksburg, reaching Milliken's Bend, La., December 24, 1862. Took part in various expeditions in that vicinity including the advance against Arkansas Post and Fort Hindman, January 10-11, 1863. In February was a part of the force engaged in the Cypress Bend, Ark. expedition. In March and April following accompanied expeditions into Mississippi, and advanced with General Grant's forces to Grand Gulf. Crossed the Mississippi River on April 30 at that place and at once marched to Port Gibson and took part in the battle at that place on May 1, 1863. This was followed by the engagement at Raymond, Miss., May 12, Champion's Hill May 16, Big Black River Bridge, May 17. With the other Union forces the regiment took its place in the entrenchments in the rear of Vicksburg and participated in the siege of that place May 19 to July 4, 1863, when Vicksburg was surrendered. The day after the surrender joined the forces in the campaign against Jackson, Miss., July 5-25.

In August the Twentythird was transferred to Louisiana and was with the expedition against Opelousas, and a part of the force operating in the Teche Country, La. October 3-November 30, 1863.

In December the Twentythird was transferred to southern Louisiana and assigned to the force which took part in the expedition to Texas. Landed at Matagorda Bay, Tex. on the 23 of December and established a camp. In the latter part of February 1864 returned to southern Louisiana and participated in the Red River Campaign, March 10-May 22, 1864. Was with the troops accompanying Farragut on his campaign against the outer defenses of Mobile in August 1864. In September and until the early part of 1865 the regiment was engaged in various minor campaigns in Louisiana and southern Mississippi. In March 1865 it was a part of the Union forces under General Canby with which the Twentythird returned to Mobile and participated in the Mobile Campaign, March 17–May 4, 1865, taking part in the investment and reduction of Spanish Fort and the capture of Fort Blakely April 9, 1865. Thereafter the regiment remained in southern Alabama and Mississippi until July 4, 1865, when it was mustered out. Returned to Madison, Wis., July 16 and was disbanded July 24, 1865.

Twentyfourth Infantry.

The Twentyfourth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Sigel, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and the last Company was mustered into the service of the United States August 21, 1862. Leaving the State September 5 going directly to Louisville, Ky., thence to Covington, Ky. and was at once assigned to duty in the field in north central Kentucky. Participated in the battle at Chaplin Hills October 8, 1862. Thereafter the regiment was engaged with other forces in minor movements, including expeditions to Danville, Ky., Bowling Green, Ky., and thence to Nashville, and from there to the vicinity of Murfreesboro, Tenn. the latter part of December, and participated in the battle of Stone's River on December 31–January 1, 1863. After the battle the Twentyfourth was on duty in and about Murfreesboro and vicinity until June when the regiment marched southward with the Army of the Cumberland under the command of Gen. Rosecrans in the Tullahoma Campaign June 23 to July 7, 1863. After some short assignments took part in the advance in September from Bridgeport, Ala. toward Chattanooga, Tenn. and participated in the battle of Chickamauga, Ga., September 19–20, 1863. On November 25 was engaged in the celebrated battle at Missionary Ridge; was one of the regiments which shortly thereafter marched with the Fourth Corps to the relief of Knoxville, a very arduous march taking a great part of the months of December and January following.

On May 3, 1864, the Twentyfourth rejoined the army under General Sherman near Chattanooga, and participated with the advance of the Union forces on Rocky Face, and in the subsequent Atlanta Campaign, May 1 to September 8, 1864, and in the battles of Resaca, Ga., May 15; Adairsville, Ga., May 17; movements about Dalton, Ga., May 18-19, and the several battles about Dallas May 26-June 1, the operations about Kenesaw Mountain June 10 to July 2, and the assault on Kenesaw June 27; the battle of Peach Tree Creek July 20, Siege of Atlanta July 22 to August 25, and the operations about Lovejoy Station September 2 to 6, 1864.

In the latter part of September the Twentyfourth was designated as one of the regiments to return northward to oppose the advance of the Confederates under General Hood. In pursuance of this order the Twentyfourth reached Chattanooga September 24 and after taking part in various stages of the Union retreat, participated in the battle of Franklin, Tenn., November 30, 1864, and the battle of Nashville, December 15-16, 1864, where the Confederates were decisively defeated.

The Twentyfourth also participated in the subsequent pursuit of the Confederates, marching as far south as Florence, Ala. where the pursuit was abandoned on December 29. The Twentyfourth returned to Huntsville, and after various movements reached Nashville April 24 and went into camp. On June 10 the regiment was mustered out of the service; reached Milwaukee the 15 and was disbanded.

Twentyfifth Infantry.

The Twentyfifth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Salomon, La Crosse, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 14 day of September 1862. On the 19 inst. the regiment proceeded to St. Paul, Minn. as a part of the force to be used in suppressing the Indian uprising in Minnesota. The command was detached and assigned to various posts in that state. In the latter part of November the Twentyfifth was relieved and was compelled to make a march of upwards of three hundred miles to Winona, Minn., and finally reached Camp Randall, Wisconsin, December 18. The men were here furloughed for a short period and on reassembling remained a short time in camp and left the State again on February 17, 1863, proceeding to Cairo, Ill. In the latter part of May the regiment embarked down the river to join the forces under Gen. Grant advancing on Vicksburg, and was engaged in various expeditions in the valley of the Yazoo and vicinity of Vicksburg and incursions into Arkansas during the months of May, June, July and August, 1863.

The Twentyfifth spent most of the latter half of 1863 at Helena, Ark., or in the district of East Arkansas, up to and until the latter part of January, 1864, when the regiment proceeded to Vicksburg and as a part of the Union forces under Gen Sherman took part in the Meridian Expedition, February 3 to March 6, 1864. On the return of the expedition the regiment participated in various movements including duties at Columbus, Ky., Crump's Landing, Tenn., Decatur and Huntsville, Ala., and reached Chattanooga on May 5, 1864, and was assigned to Sherman's Army. On May 9 as a part of the Seventeenth Corps, Army of the Tennessee, it took its place in line of battle at Resaca. From that time it was a part of the army, following Gen. Sherman in the Atlanta, Savannah and the Carolina Campaigns. Like other forces with Sherman the regiment was almost constantly on the march and in frequent contact with the enemy during the Atlanta Campaign, took part in many engagements, among which were, Resaca, May 15, 1864; The advance on Dallas, Ga. Twentyseventh Infantry.

The Twentyseventh regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Sigel, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and muster into the service of the United States completed on the 7 day of March, 1863. The regiment left the State on March, 1863, proceeding to Columbus, Kentucky. In the latter part of that month was transferred to Snyder's Bluff near Vicksburg, and remained in that vicinity during the siege of that place. After the surrender of Vicksburg the regiment moved to Helena, Ark., and subsequently to Little Rock, Ark. The greater part of the service of the regiment was rendered in Arkansas, it remaining at Little Rock until the 23 of March, 1864, when it accompanied the Camden, Ark., expedition, designed to co-operate from Little Rock, Ark., with the Red River Expedition under General Banks, moving up the river from the south. March 23-May 3, 1864. In these operations it participated in several actions including Prairie de Anne and Jenkin's Ferry. After the return from this expedition the Twentyseventh was almost continuously employed from Little Rock as a center in various expeditions until February 7, 1865, when it joined the Union forces at New Orleans under General Canby for the siege of Mobile, March 17-May 4, 1865, in which it participated. Took part in the reduction of Spanish Fort and witnessed the capture of Fort Blakely on April 9, 1865.

On May 9 the Twentyseventh returned to New Orleans and was sent to the Rio Grande region in Texas. From that date until August 29 was on duty near the mouth of the Rio Grande, when the regiment was mustered out of the service of the United States, reaching Madison, Wis., on September 17, 1865, and was shortly thereafter disbanded.

Twentyeighth Infantry.

The Twentyeighth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and finally mustered into service on the 13 day of September, 1862. Left the State December 20, 1862, and proceeding to Columbus, Kentucky, and was assigned to service. In January, 1863, took part in the expedition up the White River into Arkansas. In February following was assigned to and accompanied the forces engaged in the Yazoo Pass, Miss., expedition, February 24-April 8, 1863. After the return from this field of operations the regiment was assigned to service in Eastern Arkansas in the vicinity of Helena or Pine Bluff, and engaged in garrison and almost constant fatigue duty with and on an occasional expedition in different directions. In these various campaigns participating in many minor actions. Was a part of the force engaged in the defense of Helena, Ark., July 4, 1863.

In March, 1865, it accompanied the forces and participated in the Mobile Campaign March 17-May 3, 1865, took part in the siege of Spanish Fort.

Thereafter the Twentyeighth was sent to Texas, arriving at Brazos Santiago on the 6 of June, and camped in the vicinity of the mouth of the Rio Grande river doing guard and fatigue duty until the 23 of August, 1865, when the regiment was mustered out of the service of the United States. Returning to Madison, Wisconsin, was disbanded on the 23 of September, 1865.

The Twentyninth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 27 day of September, 1862. Leaving the State November 2 reaching Helena, Arkansas, soon thereafter, from which place it engaged in various operations into the interior of that State; expeditions up White River, Ark., to Friars Point, Miss., Yazoo Pass, Miss.

In the general movement against Vicksburg in the early part of 1863 the regiment left Helena, Ark., on April 10, crossing the Mississippi River below Vicksburg on the 30 moved to the front and took part in the battle of Fort Gibson May 3, participating subsequently in the active movements of the army under General Grant and engaged in the battle of Champions Hill on May 16, and shortly thereafter took position in the trenches in the rear of Vicksburg, and continued to participate in the siege until the surrender of that place July 4, 1863.

The day after the surrender the Twentyninth was detailed as a part of the force which took part in the Jackson Campaign, July 5 to 25. In August accompanying other forces, it occupied Natchez, Miss., from there moving in September into southern Louisiana. Was engaged in many expeditions about New Iberia, and in the early part of January, 1864, joined an expedition to Texas on the Rio Grande, returning to New Orleans the latter part of February. Was assigned to duty shortly thereafter with the forces engaged in the Red River expedition, March 10-22, 1864, and participated in that campaign, and among other actions in the battle of Sabine Cross Roads April 8, 1864. As a part of the work of the Twentyninth in this campaign it assisted Colonel Bailey in constructing his famous dam across the Red River which saved the Union gun boats. After the abandonment of the movement the regiment was transferred to southern Louisiana where it remained until September. The field of its operations was then transferred to Arkansas, with headquarters generally at Little Rock, from which the regiment moved in various directions and accompanied many expeditions in frequent contact with the enemy.

In January, 1865, the Twentyninth was again ordered to New Orleans as a part of the forces collecting for the reduction of the fortifications at Mobile, Ala. In this campaign, March 17 to May 4, 1865, including the reduction of Spanish Fort and the capture of Fort Blakely, the Twentyninth participated. The war being practically over, the regiment remained in southern Louisiana until about the 22 of June, when it was mustered out of the service of the United States, returning to Madison, Wis., was disbanded on July 17, 1865.

Thirtieth Infantry.

The Thirtieth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on October 21, 1862. While headquarters remained at Camp Randall, portions of the regiment were detailed on guard duty in various parts of the State. In May, 1863, a number of companies were transferred to the Indian frontier and for some months were engaged in guard duty on the line of the Missouri River from Sioux City north to Ft. Pierre, North Dakota. In the summer of the same year the one company remaining in the State was transferred to Superior and later to Bayfield, Wisconsin. Other companies were transferred to Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, Wis., in December, 1863, and took charge of and guarded the conscript camp. Again in 1864 most of the regiment was transferred to the Indian frontier, where it remained until November, 1864, when nine companies were transferred to Paducky, Ky., and in the following month to Bowling Green, Ky. The regiment was on provost, guard and fatigue duty on different assignments in northern Kentucky from that time until it was mustered out of service of the United States on September 20, 1865, at Louisville, Ky. Returned to Madison and was disbanded.

Thirtyfirst Infantry.

The Thirtyfirst regiment of Infantry was first organized at Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, and six companies mustered into the service of the United States on October 9, 1862, and assigned to service in guarding rebel prisoners. In the latter part of November three companies of the Battalion were transferred to Racine and three to Camp Randall, Madison. In the latter part of December the three at Madison were transferred to Camp Utley, Racine, and four additional companies recruited, and mustered into service on December 27, the final organization and muster in of the regiment being completed on the 13 of January, 1863.

ceeding to Columbus, Kentucky, and was assigned to guard and patrol duty where it remained until the latter part of October, when it was transferred to garrison and patrol duty south of Nashville on the Louisville & Nashville railway, remaining in that territory until the latter part of June, 1864.

In July the Thirtyfirst was transferred to the forces operating under General Sherman, and joined that army July 21, 1864, near Marietta, Ga. It thereafter participated in all the activities of the Atlanta Campaign, being frequently under fire. The Thirtyfirst accompanied the Union forces as a part of the Twentieth Corps from Atlanta to Savannah on the "March to the Sea", November 15 to December 21. Was engaged in the Siege of Savannah, and in the month of January moved out of that city on the Campaign in the Carolinas, in which it participated until its conclusion, when the Confederate forces under Gen. Joseph E. Johnston surrendered to the Union army under Gen. W. T. Sherman. Was in the front line of battle at Averasborough, N. C., March 16, 1865, and very actively engaged at Bentonville, N. C., March 19-21, 1865.

After the surrender of Johnston April 26, 1865, the Thirtyfirst marched with the other troops to Washington, D. C., where it participated in the Grand Review, and was shortly thereafter transferred to the provisional brigade in camp at Louisville, Ky.

On the 20 of June, 1865, six companies, "A" to "F," were mustered out and returned to Madison, Wis., and were disbanded on July 8, 1865. On the same day in Louisville, Ky., the remaining four companies were mustered out and returned to Madison, Wis., where these companies were disbanded on July 20, 1865.

Thirtysecond Infantry.

The Thirtysecond regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Bragg, Oshkosh, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on September 25, 1862. Left the State on October 30 proceeding to Memphis, Tenn., and was assigned to General Sherman's command then engaged in operations in southwestern Tennessee and northern Mississippi, and the contemplated advance on Vicksburg.

About January, 1863, the regiment returned to Memphis and was assigned to patrol and provost duty in that territory and in the vicinity of Grand Junction.

In February, 1864, the Thirtysecond moved to Vicksburg, Miss., and was assigned to the forces under Gen. Sherman and participated in the Meredian Expedition into northern Mississippi, February 3 to March 6, 1864. On returning it was employed in guard and provost duty at various points in western Tennessee, and on expeditions into northern Alabama. From Decatur, Ala.; early in August it moved to Georgia, joining General Sherman's army near Atlanta, Ga., on the 7 day of August, 1864, and continued with these forces until the final surrender of the Confederates under Johnston April 26, 1865, near Raleigh, North Carolina.

The Thirtysecond thus took part in the conclusion of the Atlanta Campaign, participating in many minor actions and were frequently under fire during the Siege of Atlanta, which was followed by the battle of Jonesborough August 31-Sept. 1, and Lovejoy's Station Sept. 2-5, 1864. Leaving Atlanta November 15 it took part in the Savannah Campaign, and in the Campaign through the Carolinas, participating in many skirmishes with the enemy and in the battle of Bentonville, N. C., March 19 and 20, 1865.

Thereafter with the army it marched to Washington, D. C., and took part in the Grand Review. Was mustered out of the service of the United States June 12, 1865. Returned to Milwaukee and was disbanded.

Thirtythird Infantry.

The Thirtythird regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Utley, Racine, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on October 18, 1862. Leaving the State on the 12 of November, 1862, proceeded to Memphis, Tenn., and was assigned to Lauman's Division of the Army of the Tennessee. In November the regiment was a part of the Union forces advancing on Jackson and Vicksburg, Miss.

About the middle of January, 1863 the Thirtythird was on guard and patrol duty at Moscow, Tenn., and accompanied another excursion into Mississippi about the middle of April.

On May 17 the regiment embarked from Memphis to join the army under Grant near Vicksburg, and on reaching that place took a position in the trenches on the 25 day of May, and was continuously engaged until the surrender on July 4, 1863. Following the surrender the Thirtythird participated with the forces under General Sherman in the Jackson Campaign, July 5-25, 1863.

In August the regiment returned to Vicksburg and was sent with the forces to occupy Natchez; remaining there or in that vicinity until December, when it returned to the vicinity of Vicksburg and was engaged in the usual patrol, and guard duty.

The Thirtythird accompanied the forces under General Sherman on the Meridian expedition, February 3-March 6, 1864, and returning was assigned to duty with and accompanied the Red River Expedition, participating in actions at Moore's Plantation and Marksville. Returning to Vicksburg on May 24 was shortly thereafter moved up the river to Memphis; from there to Moscow, Tenn., to accompany the forces under General A. J. Smith on an expedition to Tupelo, Miss., July 5-21, 1864. Returned shortly thereafter to Memphis, and for the next succeeding four months was engaged in various expeditions in Arkansas and southern Missouri up to the latter part of November, when with a portion of Gen. Smith's command, including the Thirtythird Infantry, was transferred to Nashville, Tenn., to re-enforce the army under General Thomas. Here the Thirtythird participated in the battle of Nashville on December 15-16, 1864, and in the pursuit of the rebel forces after the termination of that contest.

In the early part of January the Thirtythird was assigned to the forces operating against Mobile, March 17-May 4, 1865, participating in the siege of Spanish Fort and the reduction of Fort Blakely. Thereafter the regiment remained in southern Alabama until mustered out of service on the 8th of August, 1865. Returning to Madison, Wis., was disbanded on the 1 day of September, 1865.

Thirtyfourth Infantry.

The Thirtyfourth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on December 31, 1862, for a term of nine months. It left the State on the 3rd day of January, 1863, and proceeded to Columbus, Ky., where it was stationed until the expiration of its term of enlistment in the latter part of August, following. The Thirtyfourth returned to Madison, Wisconsin, and was mustered out of service on the 8 day of September, 1863.

Thirtyfifth Infantry.

The Thirtyfifth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, the last company being mustered into the service of the United States on the 27 day of February, 1864.

The regiment left the State on the 18 day of April, proceeding to New Orleans, and from thence to Port Hudson, where a few weeks were spent in guard and patrol duty. In August the Thirtyfifth was assigned to active campaign work in Louisiana and Arkansas, in which it continued until February, 1865, when under orders it proceeded to New Orleans and joined the forces in the campaign against Mobile. After the surrender of the Confederates at this place the regiment continued until June in service in southern Alabama. It was then transferred to Brazos, Santiago, Texas, and continued in active service at different points near the mouth of the Rio Grande until March 15, 1866, when it was mustered out of service. Returned to Madison, Wis., and was finally paid off and discharged on April 16, 1866.

Thirtysixth Infantry.

The Thirtysixth regiment of Infantry was organized under the superintendence of Colonel Frank A. Haskell, at Madison, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 23 day of March, 1864.

The regiment left the State on the 10 day of May, 1864. On the 18 day of May reached General Grant's Army at Spotsylvania, Va., and on the 19 was assigned to a position in the Second Army Corps, with the history of which it is inseparably connected. Participating in the campaign against Richmond and the rebel army until the surrender of the Confederates under General Lee to the Union Army commanded by Lt. Gen. Grant at Appomattox C. H., April 9, 1865. Thereafter the Thirtysixth participated in the Grand Review at Washington and was assigned to the Provisional brigade and sent to Louisville, Ky., where the regiment was mustered out of service of the United States July 12, 1865. Fiftieth Infantry.

The Fiftieth regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and left the State by companies in the latter part of March and early in April, 1865, proceeding to St. Louis, Mo. Subsequently was moved to Ft. Leavenworth, Kas., and thence to Fort Rice, Dakota Territory.

Company E was ordered to Madison and mustered out on the 18 of April, 1866. In the latter part of June the regiment returned to the State and was mustered out of the service of the United States and disbanded.

Fiftyfirst Infantry.

The Fiftyfirst regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, during February, March and April, 1865. Eight companies left the State in the latter part of April proceeding to St. Louis, Mo. The other four companies were shortly thereafter mustered out.

The eight companies at St. Louis were assigned to duty in western Missouri until August, when the regiment was returned to Madison, Wis., and was mustered out by companies from the 11 to the 30 of November, 1865, and disbanded.

Fiftysecond Infantry.

The Fiftysecond regiment of Infantry was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, and left the State by companies in April, 1865, proceeding to St. Louis, Mo. Was assigned to duty in western Missouri and Kansas protecting the men building railways and restraining the depredations of lawless men.

In June was transferred to Ft. Leavenworth, Kas. Was mustered out of the service of the United States July 28, 1865, proceeding to Madison, Wisconsin, and was disbanded on the 2 day of August, 1865.

Fiftythird Infantry.

Four companies of the Fiftythird regiment of Infantry were organized in April, 1865, and proceeded to St. Louis, Mo., and thence to Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and there by order of the War Department was transferred to the Fiftyfirst Infantry on June 10, 1865, and mustered out with that regiment.

Berdan's Sharpshooters.

First United States Sharpshooters.

Company "G" only of this regiment was from Wisconsin. Was organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wisconsin, September, 1861, leaving the State September 19 and proceeding to Weehawken, N.J., where the regiment was fully organized.

Moved to Washington and served in the defenses until March 24, 1862, when it moved to Fortress Monroe and was at once assigned to duty with the forces under General McClellan then about to begin the Peninsular Campaign, in which the Sharpshooters served. From this time until the expiration of the term of service in 1864 the Sharpshooters were engaged in all the campaigns of the Army of the Potomac, being frequently assigned to special service on the outposts or picket lines.

The term of service of Company "G" having expired, the men were mustered out and disbanded on the field September 22, 1864. Among the actions in which Co. G participated are the battles of:

Yorktown
Williamsburg
Hanover Court-House
Fair Oaks
Mechanicsville
Gaines' Mill
White Oak Swamp
Malvern Hill
Second Bull Run
Fredericksburg

Chancellorsville
Gettysburg
Kelly's Ford
Mine Run
Wilderness
Spotsylvania
Totopotomoy
Cold Harbor
Petersburg

First Cavalry.

Recruiting for the First regiment of Cavalry was authorized in the summer of 1861, and Camp Fremont at Ripon, Wis., was designated as the rendezvous. It became necessary to change the location and the camp was changed to Camp Harvey, Kenosha, Wis., on the 22 of November, 1861. Here the organization was perfected and the last Company mustered into the service of the United States on the 8 of March 1862.

The regiment left the State on the 17 of March, proceeding to St. Louis, Mo. and shortly thereafter to Cape Girardeau, Mo. From this point as a headquarters the several companies were detached and sent to various points in Missouri and Arkansas for service, and until the latter part of May 1863 the regiment was engaged in similar duties at various points in this territory, when it was transferred to middle Tennessee, reaching Nashville, Tenn. on the 14 of June and was assigned to the Cavalry Corps of the Army of the Cumberland with which it was subsequently identified, serving chiefly in middle Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama.

In the summer of 1863 the regiment participated in the advance on Chattanooga, and was engaged on the extreme right of the Union line in the battle of Chickamauga September 19-20 1863. Thereafter followed a long series of movements which kept the cavalry engaged at different points guarding wagon trains and lines of communication and coming in frequent contact with the enemy. At the opening of the Atlanta Campaign, May 1 to September 8, 1864, the First was assigned to the Cavalry Corps accompanying the army of Gen. Sherman. In this campaign it was almost constantly on the move performing the duties usually assigned to the cavalry.

In October following the surrender of Atlanta the First ac-accompanied the forces sent in pursuit of the Confederate forces under General Hood who were invading middle Tennessee, and who were finally so signally defeated and crushed at the battles of Franklin and Nashville.

After the defeat of the Confederates at Nashville, December 15-16, 1864, the First Cavalry was engaged in pursuing the retreating rebel forces, for that purpose pushing into Alabama; continuing in active service until after the collapse of the Confederacy in the month of April, 1865.

On the 6th of May 1865 the First Cavalry was stationed at Macon, Ga. at which point the command received orders to start in the pursuit of Jefferson Davis who was presumed to be escaping from the Union forces and at that time was in Southern Georgia. After an arduous march of several days and nights the First, with other Union forces, succeeded in overtaking Mr. Davis and his suite on the 10 day of May, 1865 near Irwinville, Ga., capturing the whole company.

After the capture of Mr. Davis the regiment was transferred to Nashville, Tenn. and mustered out of the service of the United States on the 19 day of July, 1865. Shortly thereafter returned to Madison, Wis. and was disbanded.

Second Cavalry.

The Second regiment of Cavalry was organized at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and mustered in by companies at various dates, the last being March 12, 1862. The regiment left the State March 24, 1862, proceeding to St. Louis, Mo. and stationed at Benton Barracks. From this point battalions from the regiment were sent into the States of Missouri and Arkansas, and were in active service until the month of January, 1863, when the Second and Third battalion were moved to Memphis, Tenn., the First remaining in Missouri. In June following the Second and Third Battalions were transferred to Snyder's Bluff near Vicksburg, Miss. The day following the surrender of Vicksburg July 4, 1863 the regiment was assigned to the forces under General Sherman and participated in the Jackson Campaign July 5-25, 1863. On the return from this expedition the regiment remained at and in the vicinity of Vicksburg doing patrol and police duty until November 1864. Here during the month of September the First Battalion rejoined the regiment. For several months following the regiment was sent to various points with expeditions, the field of operations extending from Vicksburg to Memphis, to Ripley, Miss. and to Gaines Landing, Ark. among other points.

In the month of August 1865 the regiment was ordered to Texas, and companies stationed at different points in that state were assigned to patrol and garrison duty.

On October 30, 1865, the regiment was mustered out of the service of the United States at Austin, Tex. Returned to Madison, Wis., where it was disbanded on December 14, 1865.

Third Cavalry.

The Third regiment of Cavalry was organized at Camp Barstow, Janesville, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States at various dates, the muster being completed on January 31, 1862. The regiment left the State on March 26 for St. Louis, Mo. On its way there and near Chicago an unfortunate railway accident occurred in which twelve men were killed. The regiment remained at St. Louis until the latter part of May, when it was assigned to Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., and here on the 27 of May, Colonel Barstow, the Commander, was appointed Provost Marshal of Kansas, and companies of the Third Cavalry were assigned to provost duty in several localities.

In the month of September of that year six companies were detached and assigned to duty under General Salomon in southwestern Missouri and Arkansas, and with the Union forces with this command participated in the battle of Prairie Grove, December 7, 1862.

The remainder of the service of this regiment was spent in southwestern Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Indian Territory, detachments being almost constantly on the move from point to point, engaged in very arduous duties of scouting, skirmishing and patrolling and in frequent contact with the enemy.

The regiment was mustered out of the service of the United States by companies the final company being disbanded at Madison, Wis., November 1, 1865.

Fourth Cavalry.

The Fourth Cavalry was organized as a regiment of Infantry at Camp Utley, Racine, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States on the 2 day of July 1861, and later left the State on the 15 of July and proceeded to Baltimore, Md., and into camp at the Relay House, Md., August 5, 1861, remaining on duty here until early in November when the regiment was transferred to Baltimore, and here it remained until the latter part of February, 1862, when it proceeded to Newport News, Va., from which point the Fourth embarked on the 6 of March to join the "Army of the Gulf." It arrived at Ship Island below New Orleans March 12, 1862, and landed in New Orleans on May 1. Was at once assigned to active service and took part with an expedition up the Mississippi river against Vicksburg in May, and another in June, and with this force occupied Baton Rouge, La., a little later in the year.

The forces there were employed in successful expeditions during that winter, and in May were collected with a view of capturing Port Hudson, Miss., in which siege and sanguinary contest the Fourth participated May 21 to July 8, 1863.

This was the last service of the Fourth as a regiment of Infantry. On the 1 of September, 1863, the regiment was by order of the War Department equipped as a cavalry regiment. Thereafter the Fourth regiment was actively and almost constantly engaged in scouting, picketing and accompanying expeditions of various points in Louisiana and Mississippi until July, 1865, when with other troops it was transferred to Texas near the Rio Grande. Companies of the regiment were detached to guard different points along the line of that river, and the whole command remained in this service until the latter part of May, 1866, when the regiment was transferred to Madison, Wis., which place was reached June 14 and the regiment soon thereafter mustered out of service of the United States and disbanded.

First Light Artillery.

The First Battery of Light Artillery was organized at Camp Utley, Racine, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States on October 10, 1861. It left the State on the 23 of January, 1862, proceeding to Louisville, Ky. From there moved to Lexington, Ky., in April, and was assigned to the Union forces operating under General Morgan and participated in the Cumberland Gap Campaign March 28—June 18, 1862, and in the action at Tazewell, Tenn., August 6, 1862.

In October the battery was transferred to Memphis, Tenn., and assigned to the forces assembling to operate against Vicksburg the latter part of December, 1862. This expedition was commanded by General Sherman, and the First Battery participated in several actions in the attempt to secure a lodgment above Vicksburg. The First Battery remained continuously with the Army, and on April 30, 1863, crossed the river with the forces under General Grant, and on the 1 day of May took part in the battle of Port Gibson. Followed the various movements of the army, and on May 19, 1863, took its place in the line of entrenchments and opened fire on the Confederates at Vicksburg. After the surrender the First Battery accompanied the Union forces on the Campaign against Jackson, Miss., July 5-25, 1863.

In August the Battery was transferred to southern Louisiana and in October assigned to the defenses at New Orleans, La., where it remained until the month of April, 1864, when it was assigned to and accompanied the Red River Expedition. Thereafter its services were chiefly rendered in southern Louisiana, operating from Baton Rouge as an initial point, making long marches and participating in many minor movements and frequent contact with the enemy.

The battery was mustered out of the service of the United States at New Orleans July 18, 1865; returned to Milwaukee, Wis., and was disbanded.

Second Light Artillery.

The Second Battery of Light Artillery was organized at Camp Utley, Racine, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States on October 10, 1861. It left the State January 21, 1862, proceeding to Washington, D. C., and thence to Fortress Monroe, Va., and was stationed there and in that vicinity until January, 1863, when it was moved to Suffolk, Va.

where on January 30, 1863, it participated in the action at Deserted House or Kelly's Store. After the battle the Battery remained in the vicinity of Suffolk until the latter part of May, when it moved to Williamsburg, Va., and in July to Yorktown, Va., where it remained on duty until January, 1864, when the Battery was transferred to Point Lookout, Md. Here it remained on duty until mustered out of the service of the United States July 10, 1865, when it returned to Milwaukee, Wis., and was disbanded.

Third Light Artillery.

The Third Battery of Light Artillery, was organized at Camp Utley, Racine, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States on October 10, 1861. The battery left the State on the 23 of January, 1862, proceeding to Louisville, Ky. In the early part of March it moved to Nashville, Tenn., and thence to Savannah, Tenn. During the summer of that year the battery moved from place to place with the Union forces in the active movements of that year, and participated in the battle of Chaplin Hills or Perryville, Ky., October 8, 1862; in the battle of Stone's River, December 30-31 and Jan. 1, 1863; and in the Tullahoma Campaign June 23-July 7, 1863, and in the advance upon Chattanooga which followed, where it was assigned to a position in the fortifications, and remained a part of the permanent garrison of that place until the close of the war.

Returned to Madison, Wis., and on the 20 day of July, 1865, was mustered out of the service and disbanded.

Fourth Light Artillery.

The Fourth Battery of Light Artillery was organized at Beloit, Wis., and transferred to Camp Utley, Racine, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States on October 1, 1861. The battery left the State January 21, 1862, proceeding to Washington, D. C., and thence down the Potomac to Fortress Monroe, Va., arriving there on the 28 day of January, 1862, and was assigned to duty at Fortress Monroe remaining there until September.

The celebrated engagement between the Monitor and Merrimac occurred on the 8 day of March, 1862, and the Fourth Light Artillery fired the gun "Union" during the action.

In September the battery was transferred to Hampton, Va., remaining on duty there until January, 1863, when it was transferred to Suffolk, Va. Many other assignments in southeastern Virginia were made during the year.

In May, 1864, the Fourth Battery was assigned to the Artillery Brigade of the First Division of the Eighteenth Army Corps, and took part with that Division in the advance then being made on Richmond and Petersburg, participating in various movements of that organization of the Union forces among them the battles of Drewry's Bluff, May 12-16, 1864; assault on Petersburg, June 16, 1864, and Malvern Hill, July 14, 1864. Accompanied the Union Cavalry on several raids about Richmond, and one occasion passed entirely around that city.

Was mustered out of the service of the United States at Richmond, Va., on the 3 of July, 1865; returned to Madison, Wis., and was disbanded shortly thereafter.

Fifth Light Artillery.

The Fifth Battery of Light Artillery was organized at Camp Utley, Racine, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States on October 1, 1861. Left the State on March 15, 1862, for St. Louis, Mo., and proceeded down the river to New Madrid, Mo., remaining there until the surrender of Island No. 10.

On the 19 of April moved up the Mississippi and Tennessee rivers and disembarked at Pittsburg Landing, Tenn., reaching that point on the 7 of May, 1862.

It accompanied the army in the advance on Corinth, and participated in the battle of Farmington May 9, 1862, and in the Siege of Corinth April 29-June 10, 1862.

Retreated with the Union Army northward into Kentucky and participated in the battle of Chaplin Hills October 8, 1862; and in the advance and battle of Stone's River, December 31, 1862, to January 1, 1863; in the Tullahoma Campaign which followed June 23-July 7, 1863, and in the advance on Chattanooga, Tenn.

Was assigned to the Second Division of the Fourteenth Army Corps, and in May, 1864, accompanied the advance of the Union army under General Sherman in the Atlanta Campaign. May 1-Sept. 8, 1864, participated in many of the battles and all of the marches of that Campaign. Followed the fortunes of the Fourteenth Corps after the surrender of Atlanta, and marched with that organization on the Savannah Campaign Nov. 15-Dec. 21, 1864, and the Campaign through the Carolinas, Jan. 1-April 26, 1865, participating in many minor engagements and in the battle of Bentonville March 19-21, 1865.

Took part in the Grand Review at Washington, D. C., remaining in camp thereabouts until the early part of June, when the battery returned to Madison, Wis., and was mustered out of the service on the 14 of June, 1865, and disbanded.

Sixth Light Artillery.

The Sixth Battery of Light Artillery was organized at Camp Utley, Racine, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States on the 2 day of October, 1861. The battery left the State on the 15 of March, 1862, proceeding to New Madrid, Mo., where it was placed in charge of a siege battery.

After the surrender of Island No. 10, the Sixth was transferred to Corinth, Miss., reaching that place the latter part of May, and participated in the siege of and in the battle of Corinth October 3-4, 1862. Subsequently was transferred to the vicinity of Grand Junction, and later on to Memphis, Tenn. In the early part of March, 1863, embarked down the river with the forces advancing on Vicksburg. Crossed the Mississippi river May 1 and took part in the movements of the army under Gen. Grant, participating in the battle of Champion's Hill on the 16 day of May and on the 19 of May took a position in the trenches in the rear of Vicksburg, and continued in this service until the surrender July 4, 1863.

After the surrender took part in various movements in northern Mississippi and southern Tennessee, reaching Chattanooga, Tenn., November 24, and taking part in the battle of Missionary Ridge November 25, 1863, and in the pursuit of the Confederates.

Thereafter and until the beginning of the Atlanta Campaign, was stationed at various points in northern Alabama, including Bridgeport and Huntsville.

Joined Sherman's army at Kingston, Ga., and was largely engaged in garrison duty in that army until the latter part of November, 1864, when the Battery was transferred to Nashville, Tenn., and remained on duty at that point during the battle of Nashville December 15-16, 1864.

In February was transferred to Chattanooga, Tenn., and assigned to a permanent camp, where it remained until mustered out of the service of the United States. Reached Madison, Wis., July 3, 1865, and was disbanded July 18, 1865.

Seventh Light Artillery.

The Seventh Battery of Light Artillery was organized at Camp Utley, Racine, Wisconsin, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 4 of October, 1861. The battery left the State on the 15 of March, 1862, proceeding to New Madrid, Mo., where it was placed in charge of siege guns which it operated until the surrender of Island No. 10, April 8, 1862. It remained for a short time at that station, and was then transferred to Tennessee and assigned to forces operating in middle Tennessee. For some months thereafter was engaged in active pursuit of rebel raiders in western Tennessee, and participated in the action at Parker's Cross Roads December 31, 1862.

From Jackson, Tenn., as headquarters, it accompanied expeditions into various parts of western Tennessee and northern Mississippi, and for a short period in June, 1863, was stationed at Corinth, Miss. In the latter part of that month the Seventh was transferred to Memphis, which remained the headquarters of the organization during the remainder of its term of service and from this point participated in many expeditions against the enemy, including an action at Guntown, Miss., June 10, 1864, and the defense of Memphis August 1, 1864. Thereafter the battery remained at Memphis until its muster out of the service of the United States July 20, 1865.

Eighth Light Artillery.

The Eighth Battery of Light Artillery was organized at Camp Utley, Racine, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States on the 8 of January, 1862.

It left the State on March 18. for St. Louis, Mo., and early in April proceeded to Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., where the battery remained a short time, and was then transferred to Tennessee and on to Corinth, Miss., which place it reached on July 9, 1862. It participated in various movements of the Army about Corinth and at Iuka, and moved northward with the Union forces toward the Ohio in the autumn of that year.

Participated in the battle of Chaplin Hills, Ky., October 8, 1862, and in the pursuit of the Confederate forces. Also in the battle of Stone's River, Tenn., December 30-31, 1862, and January 1, 1863, remaining at Murfreesborough in camp a few months. It then participated in the Tullahoma Campaign June 23-July 7, 1863, and the advance on Chattanooga, and in the battle of Chickamauga, September 19-20, 1863, and Missionary Ridge November 25, 1863.

Shortly thereafter was transferred to Nashville, Tenn., and in April, 1864, was assigned to Murfreesborough as a part of the permanent garrison where it remained during its period of subsequent service.

Returned to Milwaukee, Wis., and was mustered out of service on August 10, 1865, and disbanded.

Ninth Light Artillery.

The Ninth Battery of Light Artillery was organized at Burlington, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States on January 27, 1862. In the latter part of March the battery was transferred to Camp Utley, Racine, Wis., and from there to St. Louis, Mo., on March 20.

In April, 1862, moved up the Missouri river to Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., and on the 26 of April left there for the march westward "Across the Plains," arriving at Denver, Colorado Territory, on the 2 of June, 1862. In June 5 one section of the battery left Denver for Ft. Union in New Mexico. The other sections of the battery were stationed at different points in Colorado Territory and western Kansas, among other points Ft. Lyon and Ft. Larned, and at Denver, doing garrison duty and protecting the settlers against excursions of the Indians. Sections of the battery remained in that territory until the latter part of October, 1864, and were then assigned to General Blunt's Division of the Army of the Border in eastern Kansas, and participated in the action at Little Blue, Mo., October 21, 1864.

Thereafter the different sections of the battery were stationed at points in Kansas until the close of the war, and were finally mustered out of the service of the United States on September 30, 1865, and disbanded at Madison, Wis., October 4, 1865.

Tenth Light Artillery.

The Tenth Battery of Light Artillery was organized at New Lisbon, Wis., and mustered into the service of the United States at Milwaukee, Wis., February 10, 1862, and assigned to Camp Utley, Racine, Wis.

Left the State on the 18 of March, proceeding to St. Louis, Mo., and in the month of April was transferred to the army at Pittsburg Landing, Tenn. It took part in the advance on, and in the siege of Corinth, Miss., April 29–June 10, 1862, and followed the movements of the army to Iuka, Miss., and other points in that vicinity. Accompanied the movement northward, reaching Nashville, Tenn., September 14, and remaining thereabouts frequently on detached service and in encounters with the enemy.

In August, 1863, followed the army under Rosecrans in the advance against Chattanooga, and was stationed for short times at various points along the line of the railway, protecting the lines of communication from the raids of the enemy.

Early in May, 1864, the battery was assigned to the Third Cavalry Division of the Army of the Cumberland, and with this organization participated in the Atlanta Campaign, May 1–Sept. 8, 1864, accompanying the Cavalry Corps of Sherman's Army on most of its movements. The battery rendered a like service in the Savannah Campaign November 15–December 21, 1864, participating in many actions, and also in the Campaign in the Carolinas, Jan. 1–April 26, 1865, including the battle at Averasborough, N. C., March 16, 1865.

On reaching Goldsboro, N. C., the men whose terms of service had expired were mustered out and the remainder of the members transferred to the Twelfth Light Artillery, with which organization such members served and were mustered out of the service with the Twelfth battery.

Eleventh Light Artillery.

The Eleventh Battery of Light Artillery was partially organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wis., and left the State on the 6 of April, 1862, proceeding to Camp Douglas, Ill., where its organization was completed, and was mustered into the service of the United States as Battery "L" of the First Illinois Light Artillery.

Upon leaving Camp Douglas it proceeded to Harper's Ferry, W. Va., and from thence into the northern part of West Virginia on the 23 of June, 1862. The battery remained in active service in that State until January, 1865, when it was recalled to Harper's Ferry and mustered out.

Twelfth Light Artillery.

The Twelfth Battery of Light Artillery was enlisted and mustered into the service of the United States at various dates in the early part of 1862 and sent forward in squads to Jefferson Barracks, Mo. A part of the battery was sent to New Madrid, Mo., and assisted in the siege and reduction of Island No. 10. Two sections left Jefferson Barracks on the 6 of May and proceeded to Hamburg, Tenn., and thence to Corinth, Miss., and participated in the siege of that place April 29-June 10, 1862. In the following months the battery was actively engaged in moving from place to place with the Union forces in northern Mississippi and southern Tennessee until March, 1863, when it joined Sherman's Army advancing against Vicksburg. Disembarking and proceeding down the river crossed the same on May 1 below Vicksburg, and was at once assigned to a position in Grant's army, participating in the engagement at Raymond on May 12. Participated in the whole of the siege of Vicksburg May 19-July 4, 1863, and remained thereabouts until September, when the battery was transferred to Arkansas to reinforce the troops under General Steele.

Returning to Memphis and Chattanooga in November, was placed in position to protect the transfer of the Union troops across the Tennessee about to engage in the battle of Missionary Ridge. After that date the Twelfth moved from point to point along the line of railway in northern Alabama until June, when it was transferred to Kingston, Ga., and on the 14 of July assigned as a part of the garrison at Allatoona Pass. Participated in the celebrated defense of Allatoona, Ga., October 15, 1864.

Rejoining Sherman's army at Atlanta on November 15 it moved with the army on the Savannah Campaign and participated in the siege of Savannah December 14-21, 1864. In January with the army moved into the Carolinas and followed the fortunes of that army until the surrender of the Confederates under Gen. Johnston April 26, 1865.

Participated in the Grand Review at Washington and shortly thereafter was transferred to Madison, Wis., and mustered out of the service of the United States June 26, 1865.

Thirteenth Light Artillery.

The Thirteenth Battery of Light Artillery was organized at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and part of the men were mustered into the service of the United States on November 4, 1863, and the remainder on December 29, 1863.

The battery left the State on the 28 of January, 1864, and proceeded to New Orleans and thence to Baton Rouge, La., which point was reached on the 18 of February, 1864. Were equipped and remained here on garrison duty until mustered out of the military service July 20, 1865.

First Heavy Artillery.

In June 1863 steps were taken to organize a battalion of four batteries of heavy artillery in Wisconsin, and in September following this was enlarged to recruiting a sufficient number of Companies to form a regimental organization.

Company K of the Second Infantry which had been detached equipped as a battery of artillery and assigned to garrison duty about Washington shortly after the first battle of Bull Run, continued as Battery A of the First Heavy Artillery, and served its term of service in and about the fortifications protecting that city.

Battery B was organized at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, Wis., in October, 1863, and left the State shortly thereafter proceeding to Kentucky and remaining on garrison duty at different points in that state, the last being Lexington, until the 30 of August, 1865, at which time this Battery was mustered out and discharged from the service.

Battery C of the First Heavy Artillery was mustered into the service of the United States on the 1 of October, 1863, at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, Wis., and left the State on October 30 proceeding at once to Chattanooga, where the battery remained until March, 1865. After several transfers the battery was located at Nashville, Tenn., where on the 21 of September it was mustered out of the service. Returned to Madison, Wis., and was disbanded on the 25 of September, 1865.

Battery D of the First Heavy Artillery was mustered into the service of the United States on the 7 of November, 1863, and left Camp Washburn on the 1 of February, 1864, proceeding at once to New Orleans. Shortly thereafter was assigned to duty at Fort Berwick, Brashear City, where the Battery remained on duty until the month of June, 1865, when it was ordered to Washington, D. C., and assigned to duty in the defenses of that city. Was shortly thereafter mustered out of the service of the United States on the 8 day of August, 1865, and transferred to Milwaukee, Wis., and disbanded.

Batteries E and F of the First Heavy Artillery were organized at Camp Randall, Madison, Wis., and left the State on the 3 day of October, 1863, proceeding to Washington and were assigned to duty in the defenses of that city, where they remained until mustered out of service. Returned to Milwaukee, Wis., and were discharged on the 1 of July, 1865.

Batteries G, H, I and K of the First Heavy Artillery were mustered into the service of the United States at Camp Washburn in October and November, 1864, and were transferred to Washington and assigned to positions in the defenses of that city, where the batteries remained until the latter part of June, 1865, when all were mustered out and returned to Wisconsin, and were disbanded in the early part of July.

Batteries A and D were mustered out of the service on the 18 day of August, 1865, and returned to Wisconsin and were disbanded.

*The numbers under this heading, which aggregate 2,778,304, are the numbers of credits for enlistments and reenlistments and do not represent individuals. Some men enlisted two or more times, but the number of reenlistments has never been officially determined. It has been estimated by this office, however, from the best data now obtainable, that the whole number of individuals in service in the Union Army and Navy during the civil war was 2,213,365.

†Colored troops not specifically credited to any state. They were recruited as follows: In Alabama, 4,969; Arkansas, 5,526; Colorado, 95; Florida, 1,044; Georgia, 3,486; Louisiana, 24,052; Mississippi, 17,869; North Carolina, 5,035; South Carolina, 5,462; Tennessee, 20,133; Texas, 4; Virginia, 5,723; at large, 5,896.

COPY OF A CIRCULAR COMPILED BY THE OFFICIALS OF THE WAR DEPARTMENT, U. S. A.

Deaths in the United States Army During the War of the Rebellion.

According to the latest official compilation, the whole number of deaths among officers and enlisted men of the Federal Army during the war of the Rebellion, as shown by the official records, was 359,528. The actual number, however, must be somewhat larger, because it is known that many of the records, especially those of southern prisons, are far from complete.

Table showing the number of deaths, by causes, in the United States Army during the War of the Rebellion.

MILITARY FORMATIONS--U. S. ARMY CIVIL WAR PERIOD

Squads and Sections were nominal. A squad might be 4, 6 or 8 men; a section 15 to 25.

A Platoon was half a Company. A lieutenant commanded. A war strength Company was 100 men, commanded by a Captain.

Infantry. 10 Companies made an Infantry regiment. There was no tactical division into battalions. The field officers were a Colonel, Lieut. Colonel and Major.

Brigade. 4 regiments usually made a brigade, under a brigadier general.

3 brigades usually made a division under a Major General.

3 divisions usually made a Corps d' Armee (an Army Corps) under one of the senior Major Generals.

A Field Battery of artillery—1 captain, 3 lieutenants, 150 men, with 6 guns and 88 horses, was frequently attached to each brigade. The guns were muzzle loaders, 3 inch rifles, or 6 or 12 pdr. smooth bore. Late in the War batteries were reduced to 4 guns.

Cavalry. A troop or Company averaged 100 men, with Captain and 2 lieutenants. It was divided into 2, 3 or 4 sections; 4 troops made a battalion under a major; 3 battalions a regiment under a colonel and lieutenant colonel. Brigades and Divisions were formed as in Infantry.

Artillery. A battery of Horse Artillery. 1 Captain; 3 lieutenants and 150 men, with 6 guns and 140 horses (cannoneers rode horses) usually accompanied each Cavalry Brigade.

EXECUTIVE AND LEGISLATIVE ACTS SUPPORT OF THE UNION

After the election in November 1861, of Abraham Lincoln as President, several states took steps which ultimately led to the passage of ordinances of secession, and military forces organized by those states seized property of the United States located at prominent points within those several states.

The commanding officer of the Union forces at Charleston, S. C. declined to surrender to the State forces the forts under his command. This was particularly true of Ft. Sumpter.

Fort Sumpter, located in Charleston Harbor (S. C.), was fired upon Friday, April 12, 1861, and evacuated by the Union forces on Sunday, April 14th. After this affair it was not expected that an armed conflict could be avoided.

On April 15, 1861, President Lincoln issued a call for 75,000 volunteers to constitute a force to suppress the combinations to obstruct the enforcement of the laws of the United States and to cause the laws to be duly executed.

(Messages and Papers of the Presidents, Vol. 6, pp. 13-14.) 122 Rebellion Records 67-68.

On the same day the War Department telegraphed to the Governor that the call for one regiment of thirtyseven officers and seven hundred and fortythree men—a total of seven hundred and eighty—would be mailed that evening. The number furnished was eight hundred and seventeen.

(125 Rebellion Records, 1264-1270.)

Annual Session 1861.

The annual session of the legislature of 1861 adjourned on the 17th day of April 1861, but had during the session anticipated the possibility of a civil war, and had adopted three joint resolutions in which the "Faith of the people of Wisconsin to aid the President of the United States in carrying out the principles indicated in his inaugural address to the fullest extent, putting into the scale if need be 'Our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.'"

And passed three acts to enable the Governor to meet and supply anticipated calls for troops when a call was made for the same by the President of the United States to aid in maintaining the Union, and provided for the equipment of these troops and appropriated $200,000 to defray the necessary expenses. The money was to be raised by the issue of bonds.

See—Chapters 239 and 307, 1861.

And to encourage enlistment it was provided that such persons as enroll themselves and are "received into the service of the United States pursuant to any call, which has been or shall hereafter be made by the president of the United States, shall during such service, be exempt from all civil process."

Chapter 309, 1861.

Call for Volunteers.

Pursuant to the call of President Lincoln asking for the services of one regiment of volunteers from Wisconsin, the Governor on April 16, 1861, issued a proclamation calling for volunteers:

"To the Loyal Citizens of Wisconsin:

For the first time in the history of this Federal Government, organized treason has manifested itself within several states of the Union, and armed rebels are making war against it. The Proclamation of the President of the United States tells of unlawful combinations too powerful to be suppressed in the ordinary manner, and calls for military forces to suppress such combinations, and to sustain him in executing the laws. The treasures of the country must no longer be plundered; the public property must be protected from aggressive violence; that already seized, must be retaken, and the laws must be executed in every State of the Union alike.

A demand made upon Wisconsin by the President of the United States for aid to sustain the Federal Arm, must meet with a prompt response. One Regiment of the Militia of this State will be required for immediate service, and further service will be required as the exigencies of the Government may demand. It is a time when, against the civil and religious liberties of the people, and against the integrity of the Government of the United States, parties and politicians and platforms must be as dust in the balance. All good citizens, everywhere, must join in making common cause against a common enemy.

Opportunities will be immediately offered to all existing military companies, under the direction of the proper authorities of the State, for enlistment to fill the demand of the Federal Government, and I hereby invite the patriotic citizens of the State to enroll themselves into companies of seventy-eight men each, and to advise the Executive of their readiness to be mustered into service immediately. Detailed instructions will be furnished on the acceptance of companies, and the commissioned officers of each regiment will nominate their own field officers.

In times of public danger bad men grow bold and reckless. The property of the citizen becomes unsafe, and both public and private rights liable to be jeopardized. I enjoin upon all administrative and peace officers within the State renewed vigilance in the maintenance and execution of the laws, and in guarding against excesses leading to disorder among the people.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Wisconsin, this 16th day of April, A. D. 1861.

By the Governor,

L. P. Harvey, Secretary of State.

Alex. W. Randall."

Messages and Proclamations Wis. War Governors, p. 48.

This call met with a prompt response. On April 22nd the Governor issued a proclamation of thanks to the people of the State for their promptness and patriotic devotion to the country.

On May 9, the Governor called a special session of the legislature.

Extra Session 1861, May 15-27.

At the special session May 15-27, eleven acts were passed to provide more completely for making "The power of the State useful to the Government" of the United States.

Aid to Families of Volunteers.

Chapter 2 authorized county boards to levy taxes for the purpose of providing for the support of families residing within such counties, of volunteers who are or may be in the military service of the United States or of the State.

1861

Section 2 of the same act authorizes “any town, city or incorporated village to raise money by tax” for like purposes.

This act was amended by Chapter 11, Laws of 1863.

Chapter 8 of the same session related to the same subject, and provided that all enlisted men having families dependent upon them for support, should receive the sum of five dollars per month from the time of muster into the service, such sum to remain in the State treasury, and the amount accumulated to the credit of any soldier to be used by the State treasurer to pay orders drawn on him by the soldier or authorities for the support and maintenance of such family. If the amount accumulated was not drawn, the same was to be paid to such soldier or his legal representative at the expiration of the term of service.

This act was farther amended by Chapters 112 and 374, 1862; Chapter 4, Extra Session 1862; Chapter 181, 1863; Chapters 117 and 435, 1864, and Chapter 416, 1865.

Provision for Military Force.

Chapter 4—was an act to provide a military force for immediate service to aid in protecting and defending the Constitution and the Union.

Section 1—provides that “For the better security and protection of the state, and to aid in enforcing the laws and maintaining the authority of the federal government, there shall be raised and organized in this state, any number, not to exceed six regiments of infantry, inclusive of three already called into the service of the United States, in the discretion of the governor: provided, that if the full number of six regiments raised as aforesaid, be mustered into the service of the United States, that then and in that case the governor is hereby authorized and empowered, in his discretion, to raise, organize and receive into the service of the state, two additional regiments of infantry, to be held as a reserve force, subject to be mustered into the service of the United States, and as often as any call shall be made by the general government, and the forces then enrolled shall be mustered into the service of the United States, it shall be lawful for the governor to accept the services of so many additional volunteers as shall be constantly equal to two regiments of reserve force enrolled in advance of any requisition made upon this state.”

This was practically making provision for supplying as many regiments as was called for by the federal authorities, and seeking to be prompt in filling quotas by having two regiments in reserve at all times.

This act amended by Chapter 11, same session, and by Section 3, Chapter 262, 1862.

Procure Arms.

Chapter 6, as amended by Chapter 12, authorizes the Governor to procure Arms from the United States, and if necessary, to purchase for the use of the State not more than two thousand stand of Arms.

Borrowing Money.

Chapter 13—An act to provide for borrowing money to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, and defend the State in time of war. Authorizes a loan not exceeding one million dollars, and amends Chapters 239 and 307, Laws of 1861. See page 209 infra.

Exemption from Civil Process.

Chapter 7, is an act to amend an act entitled "An act to declare the rights and privileges of such persons as may enroll themselves in the service of the country" chapter 309, 1861. And exempts all persons volunteering and entering the military service of the United States, from civil process while in such service.

Amended Chapters 92 and 264, 1862; Chapter 32, 1863; Chapter 362, 1865.

Aid to Enemies U. S., Prohibited.

Chamber 5 is an act entitled "An act to prevent rendering aid to Rebels", and is in the nature of a penal statute prescribing penalties for rendering aid to the enemies of the United States.

Payment of Men Discharged.

Chapter 9, provides for the payment of all volunteers who had enlisted under the proclamation of the Governor, and had been accepted and put under drill by the Governor, who were discharged without being mustered into the service.

Extra Expense.

By Chapter 3, the Governor was authorized to employ aides and clerks as the public interests might require, and allow compensation for such services; and a sum not exceeding ten thousand dollars was appropriated to pay the expense to be incurred.

The expenses of the special session were provided for by Chapter 10.

Annual Session 1862. January 8—April 7.

At the annual session of the legislature of 1862 eleven acts relating to volunteers who had enlisted in the military service of the United States were adopted.

Exemptions from Civil Process.

Chapters 92, and 264, 1862, relate to the subject of exemption of volunteers from civil process, and amends Chapter 309, 1861; Chapter 7, Special Session 1861.

Aid to Soldiers' Families.

Chapter 112 is an extension of the benefits providing for the aid of volunteers in the service of the United States by Chapter 8, Laws 1861, and makes the same apply to all regiments of infantry and cavalry and batteries of artillery mustered into the service of the United States since the 16th day of April 1861; but limits the same to persons who had already enlisted.

For farther legislation on this subject, see, Chapter 162, 1863; Chapters 117 and 435, 1864; Chapter 416, 1865, and Chapter 33, 1866.

Sales—Mortgages to State—Suspension.

Chapter 131 provides for the suspension of the sale of certain lands mortgaged to the State by any person now a private soldier or non-commissioned officer in the service of the United States.

Amended by Chapter 263, 1862; Chapter 185, 1863; Chapter 342, 1864.

Allotment Commissioners.

Chapter 190 is an act relating to allotment commissioners, their duties and compensation. These commissioners were appointed by the President of the United States for the state of Wisconsin under the provisions of an act of Congress which provided that volunteer forces in the field might allot to their relatives certain portions of their pay; and this amount was collected by the commissioners and transmitted to the designated relatives.

Federal Tax.

Chapter 224, authorized the governor to settle and adjust the tax levied upon the State by the U. S. Government, and provided that in case the same should not be adjusted prior to the second Monday of October following, a state tax sufficient to pay the Federal Tax should be levied and collected for that purpose. This provision was repealed by Chapter 2, extra session 1862.

Appointment of Surgeons.

Chapter 262, authorizes the governor to appoint with the consent of the war department one surgeon for each battery of artillery.

License Fee—Transportation.

Chapter 361 authorized the state treasurer to receive in payment of the licenses due from any railroad company in this state, warrants drawn in favor of the company by the quartermaster general for the payment of transportation of troops and munitions of war.

Secretary of State and State Treasurer—Duties.

Chapter 364 discontinued the active services of the paymaster general, quartermaster general and commissioner general, and conferred the powers and duties exercised by these officers upon the secretary of state and state treasurer.

Governor Harvey's Salary.

Chapter 370 appropriated to Mrs. Cordelia Harvey, widow of the late Governor Lewis P. Harvey, $2500, the full amount of the salary as Governor for the full term for which Mr. Harvey had been elected.

Care Sick and Wounded Soldiers.

Chapter 371 authorizes the governor to take care of sick and wounded soldiers. Appropriates not exceeding $20,000. Chapter 196, 1863; chapter 345, 1864.

Aid to Soldiers' Families.

Chapter 374 extended the benefits of Chapter 8, Laws of 1861, providing for aid to volunteers in the service of the United States so as to include Co. G of Berdan's Sharpshooters, and the military body known as Von Deutsch's Cavalry, and the Twentieth regiment of Infantry then in process of formation.

Auditing Bills.

Chapter 379 authorized the quartermaster general to audit bills for subsistence and transportation of volunteers of the Wisconsin cavalry regiments.

Extra Session 1862. September 10-26.

An extra or special session of the legislature was convened by the Governor on September 10, 1862, and continued in session six days. At this special session five acts were passed relating to the volunteers and the military service.

Aid to Soldiers' Families.

Chapter 4 is supplementary to Chapter 8 extra session 1861, and Chapters 112 and 374, 1862, and extends the benefits of these acts providing for the volunteer aid fund to families of soldiers in the service of the United States to "all regiments of infantry, and cavalry, and batteries of artillery, raised or to be raised in this State, which have or may hereafter be mustered into the service of the United States," and provides for the levy of a special tax of $275,000 to carry out the purpose of the several enactments.

Acknowledgment of Deeds, Etc.

Chapter 7 authorized commissioned officers of volunteers in any company, battery, regiment or other military corps organized in Wisconsin, to take and certify the acknowledgment of deeds or other contracts intended for record, or to take and certify depositions. Amended by Chapter 74, 1865. p. 73.

Suffrage—Soldiers' Vote.

Chapter 11 is an act to enable the militia and volunteers of this State, when in the military service of the United States or this State, to exercise the right of suffrage; provides for the method of conducting the election and certifying the result.

Amended by Chapter 59, 1863, and Chapter 88, 1865.

Auditing Bills.

Chapter 12 authorized the auditing of bills for subsistence and transporting of volunteers of Wisconsin cavalry regiments.

Bounties to Volunteers.

Chapter 13 authorized towns, cities, incorporated villages and counties to raise money for the payment of bounties to volunteers.

Chapter 17 authorized certain towns in the counties of Rock, Grant and Columbia, to levy a tax for the payment of bounties to volunteers.

The Annual Session of 1863. January 14—April 2.Legalizing Payment of Bounties.

Chapter 3 is an act to legalize the proceedings prior to, and of certain special town meetings held in the town of Addison in the county of Washington, to levy a special tax for the purpose of paying bounties to volunteers.

Similar enactments of 1863 are contained in Chapter 26 (Watertown); 28 (Lowell); 79 (Beaver Dam); 83 (towns in Dodge County); 125 (Brookfield); 148 (Spring Valley); 163 (Metomen).

Assistance to Families of Volunteers—Town, City or Village.

Chapter 11 is a general enactment and provides “that it shall be lawful for any town, city or village to raise and appropriate money for the support of families of volunteers.” And is supplementary to Chapter 2 of the laws of 1861, extra session.

Assistance to Families of Drafted Persons.

Chapter 6 authorizes the county board of Milwaukee county to provide for the support of the families of drafted persons, in the same manner as the board was authorized to provide for the support of families of volunteers.

Exemption from Civil Process.

Chapter 32 relates to the commencement and prosecution of civil actions against persons in the military service of the country. Supplements Chapter 309, 1861, Chapter 7, Extra session 1861; Chapters 92 and 262, 1862; amended 362, 1865.

Suffrage—Votes of Soldiers.

Chapter 59 is supplementary to the act hereinbefore referred to, providing for the exercise of the right of suffrage by volunteers in the military service of the United States. See Chapter 59, 1863 and Chapter 88, 1865.

State Tax.

Chapter 139, provides for levying a state tax for the year 1863 of two hundred thousand dollars, for the support of families of volunteers.

Tourniquets.

Chapter 154 authorizes the Governor to furnish tourniquets for the use of volunteers.

1863

Aid for Families of Volunteers.

Chapter 162 and Chapter 181 1863 are supplemental of former acts—providing for aid to the families of volunteers in the service of the United States. See Chapter 112, 1862 and references.

Sale of Lands—Sales Suspended.

Chapter 185 amends Chapter 131 of 1862, relating to suspension of sale of certain lands mortgaged to the state or held by volunteers.

Land Redemption Limit—Tax Sales

Chapter 186 relates to the regulation and redemption of land of volunteers in the service of the United States where the same has been sold for taxes, and extends the time for two years from and after the 1st of April 1863.

Care of Sick and Wounded Soldiers.

Chapter 196 authorizes the Governor to take care of the sick and wounded soldiers of the Wisconsin volunteers, and makes appropriation of $15,000 or so much as may be necessary for that purpose.

See Chapter 371, 1862; Chapter 354, 1864.

State Flags—Purchase Authorized.

Chapter 215 authorizes the Governor to purchase state flags and issue same to regiments on application.

Aid to Families—Dying Military Service.

Chapter 264 provides for the relief of families of persons who may die in the military service of the United States, and gives authority to extend this assistance six months after the death of the soldier.

Subscriptions—Collection by Action.

Chapter 295 authorizes the collection by legal action of subscriptions made by persons to pay bounties to volunteers, and subscriptions to support families of volunteers.

1864

Annual Session 1864. January 13 April 4.

At the annual session of 1864 nine general acts were passed relating to the military forces of the State and United States.

Chapter 47 confers on Justices of the Peace jurisdiction of actions brought under Chapter 295, Laws of 1863, which authorizes the bringing of suit for subscriptions made to pay bounties to volunteers.

Aid to Soldiers' Families.

Chapter 117 is an act revising and amending and consolidating the laws relating to extra pay to Wisconsin soldiers in the service of the United States or of this State, and providing for the relief of the families of such soldiers in certain cases, and to impose severe penalties for fraud in procuring such extra pay.

See Chapter 2, extra session; Chapters 112, 1862; 162, 1863; 117 and 435, 1864; 416, 1865; 33, 1866.

Reception of Returning Volunteers.

Chapter 143 provides for the proper reception by the state of Wisconsin of volunteers returning from the field or service of the United States.

Sale Certain Mortgaged Lands.

Chapter 341 is supplementary to Chapter 131 of 1862, entitled "An act to suspend the sale of certain lands mortgaged to the State and held by volunteers".

1864

Special State Tax—Aid Volunteers.

Chapter 349 provides for levying and collecting a special tax for the year 1864 for the support of families of volunteers. The amount to be in the discretion of the Governor, secretary of state and state treasurer, and not to exceed $200,000.

See Chapter 139, 1863.

Care of Sick and Wounded Soldiers.

Chapter 354 authorizes the Governor to take care of the sick and wounded soldiers of Wisconsin and appropriates money out of the treasury for that purpose.

See Chapter 196, 1863.

Extra Pay of Soldiers.

Chapter 435 is an act to amend Chapter 117, Laws 1864, the laws relating to the extra pay to Wisconsin soldiers in the service of the United States or this State, and providing for the relief of the families of such soldiers in certain cases.

Rewards for Procuring Volunteers, Prohibited.

Chapter 467 prohibits any persons from taking or receiving from any volunteer in the service of the United States any fee, or procuring for such volunteer extra bounty.

Suffrage—Soldiers' Residence.

Chapter 471 defines the residence of certain soldiers in this State in the military service of the United States, and provides that the taking of a bounty and being credited to a town other than the legal residence of such person shall not change the legal residence of such soldier for the purpose of exercising the right of suffrage.

Special Acts—Bounties.

In addition to the foregoing, the legislature passed 79 special acts providing that cities, towns and villages could raise money and pay bounties to volunteers.

The Annual Session of 1865. January 11 April 10.Bounties for Volunteers.

Chapter 14 authorizes cities and incorporated villages to raise money by tax for the payment of bounties to volunteers for military service in the United States, and to provide for the levy and collection of the same.

Acknowledgment of Deeds.

Chapter 74 is amendatory of the law Chap. 7, Ex. Sess. 62 which authorizes commissioned officers to take acknowledgments of deeds, affidavits, and depositions in certain cases.

Suffrage—Soldiers' Vote.

Chapter 88 is amendatory of Chapter 11, laws of extra session of 1862, entitled "An act to enable the militia and volunteers of this state, when in the military service of the United States or this State, to exercise the right of suffrage." See references under Chapter 11.

Records Adjutant General's Office.

Chapter 179 provides for correcting and completing the records of the Adjutant General's office relating to the military history of the several military organizations from this State in the service of the United States.

Bounties—Veterans Re-enlisting.

Chapter 304 is an act empowering towns, cities, and incorporated villages to raise money by tax to pay bounties to veterans who have reenlisted in the service of the United States, and who have heretofore received no legal bounty from any source.

Exemption from Civil Process.

Chapter 362 amends Chapter 32, laws of 1863, entitled "An act relating to the commencement and prosecution of civil actions against persons in the military service of the United States".

See Chapter 309, 1861 and notes.

Relief of Soldiers' Families.

Chapter 416 amends Chapter 117, laws of 1864, relating to the relief of soldiers' families.

1866

The Annual Session of 1866. January 10–April 12.

Soldiers' Monuments.

Chapter 5 authorizes towns, villages and cities to erect monuments to the memory of deceased soldiers.

Aid to Colored Soldiers.

Chapter 33 extends to colored soldiers who enlisted or were drafted into the military service of the United States and who were credited to this State, the benefits of Chapter 117 of the laws of 1864.

Certificates to Forfeited Lands.

Chapter 78 authorizes the land commissioners, in any case where land had been forfeited to the State by reason of non-payment of principal or interest, to revoke such certificates in all cases where it should be made to appear to their satisfaction that the debtor's default was caused by his absence in the military or naval service of the United States.

Tax Sale—Extension of Time.

Chapter 142 extends the time of limitation in certain cases where the owner of the land was in the military service of the United States and the land had been sold for non-payment of taxes, to 3 years from date of discharge.

Soldiers' Orphans' Home.

Chapter 39 was an act to provide for an orphans' home at Madison, Wisconsin, and appropriate $25,000.

DECISIONS OF THE SUPREME COURT OF WISCONSIN

ON QUESTIONS OF LEGISLATION AND THE LAW RELATING TO ENLISTMENTS IN THE ARMY, AND UPON OTHER QUES-TIONS ARISING OUT OF EFFORTS TO SUSTAIN THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

Financial Questions.

Among the early questions which faced the State officials was the problem of raising the necessary funds to pay the expenses connected with the organization and equipment of the volunteers. The legislature of 1861, to provide for the common defense and to aid in enforcing the laws and maintaining the authority of the Federal government, had enacted Chapter 239, laws 1861, and Chapter 13, extra session 1861, which authorized the issue of bonds amounting in the aggregate to one million dollars. The question was at once raised as to the constitutionality of the legislation. While this question remained unanswered there was no prospect of negotiating the bonds, and without money the equipment of the volunteer army could not be carried on. In his perplexity the governor appealed to the judges of the Supreme Court to aid him by a public expression of their opinion. Recognizing the extraordinary emergency and necessity for action, the judges wrote the following letter:

State of Wisconsin, Supreme Court.
Clerk's Office, Madison, June 5th, 1861.

His Excellency ALEX. W. RANDALL,
Governor of Wisconsin.

SIR:—We are in receipt of your communication of the 4th inst. asking our opinion as to the constitutionality of Chapter 239 of the General Laws of 1861, entitled "An Act to provide for the defense of the state and to aid in enforcing the laws and maintaining the authority of the Federal Government," and Chapter 13, of the extra session held in May, 1861, entitled "An Act to provide for borrowing money to repel invasion, suppress insurrection and defend the state in time of war," and as to whether bonds, issued under the above acts and in conformity to their provisions, would be valid and binding against the state.

Your Excellency is pleased to intimate that it has become a necessity in the present exigencies of the state and country to appeal to us for an opinion upon the above question. Yielding to this emergency, we have felt it to be our duty to give you our opinion upon the question suggested in your communication, and we would therefore state that we have considered the above mentioned laws, and from the examination we have given them we entertain no doubt as to their constitutionality, and we are of the opinion that the bonds issued in conformity to their provisions will be valid and binding upon the State of Wisconsin.

Respectfully yours,

LUTHER S. DIXON, Chief Justice.

O. COLE, Associate Justice.

P. S. Mr. Justice Paine is at present in Milwaukee and has had no opportunity of acting upon the subject matter of your communication.

O. COLE."

By the aid of this opinion the bonds were negotiated, the money raised, and the volunteers equipped, and to the credit of the people of the state no one ever questioned the validity of these obligations.

In Breitenbach vs. Turner, 18 Wis. 140, [January 1864] the financial legislation of Congress which made treasury notes of the United States a legal tender for the payment of pre-existing debts was sustained.

Soldiers Voting.

At the extra session of the legislature in 1862 a law was passed allowing the qualified electors of this State, who should be acting as volunteer soldiers in the service of the United States, to vote at the general fall elections. The constitutionality of this act was challenged at the January term of the Supreme Court in 1863, and the validity of the law sustained in an able opinion by Mr. Justice Paine. In conclusion, speaking for the Court, the Justice says:

"But, whenever else may be said upon the subject, this at least is true, that history has furnished no better example illustrating the capacity of the people for self government, than that furnished under this law, of the citizen soldiers pausing amid the horrors of war to discharge their duties as the primary legislators of the republic, and to guard by an intelligent use of their ballots, to be forwarded to their homes, the welfare of their country, and those principles of civil liberty for which they are ready at any moment to lay down their lives upon the field of battle."

State ex rel. Chandler v. Main, 16 Wis. 398.

Original enactment Chapter 11, extra session 1862, amended Chapter 59, 1863, and Chapter 88, 1865.

Enlistments.—Habeas Corpus.

The first case decided by the Supreme Court involving the law relating to enlistments was that of Martin Gregg, a minor over eighteen years of age who had, without the consent of his father, enlisted as a soldier into the service of the United States in the Twentieth Wisconsin Volunteer infantry. The father made an application to the Court for a writ of habeas corpus, seeking to have the soldier discharged on the ground that the minor could not make a valid contract of enlistment. The application was denied, the court holding that under the Acts of Congress then in force (Act February 13, 1862) a minor over eighteen years of age could make a valid contract of enlistment in the military service of the United States without the consent of his parent or guardian.

In re Gregg, 15 Wis. 479.

In re Higgins, 16 Wis. 351, the question of the enlistment of a minor was again presented to the Supreme Court. A minor about seventeen years of age enlisted in the First Cavalry. At the time of his enlistment he took the usual formal oath that he was eighteen years of age, but it appeared that the minor had told the recruiting officer that he was only seventeen years of age. The Court held that the enlistment was unauthorized, and that upon habeas corpus the minor should be discharged from the service.

In re Oliver, 17 Wis. 681, was an application by a father for a writ of habeas corpus to procure the discharge of his son, a minor under eighteen years of age, who had been enlisted in the army. The application came within the rule adopted in In re Higgins. But since the decision in that case Congress had adopted (March 3, 1863) an act authorizing the President to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, and the President in pursuance of the authority by such act conferred, had on the 15th of September 1863, suspended the privilege of the writ. The court accordingly denied the application and refused the writ.

In re Kemp, 16 Wis. 359.

In the fall of 1862 the authorities deemed it necessary to make a draft for men for the military service. Resistance was encountered and litigation followed.

Nicholas Kemp was arrested by the military authorities on the 12th day of November, 1862, for forcible resistance to the draft in Ozaukee county, and held in custody at Camp Randall. Upon due application a writ of habeas corpus was issued out of the Supreme Court on the 4th day of December 1862, directed to General Elliott, the commander of the military department; service of the writ was made and General Elliott sent to the clerk of the court a return, stating the reason for the arrest and detention of Kemp, and claimed that the writ of habeas corpus had been suspended by the President under General Orders No. 141, dated September 24, 1862.

The case then as presented to the court was a question as to the power of the President of the United States under the Constitution and laws of the United States, in time of civil war, to suspend the writ of habeas corpus, to declare martial law and to arrest and cause to be punished by the sentence of a court martial, or military commission, citizens charged with offenses against the laws and regulations of war. And to declare and punish as offenses those acts not made such by Congress.

The conclusion of the court was that the power of suspending the writ of habeas corpus under the first section of Article IX of the constitution of the United States is a legislative power vested in Congress, and the President had no power to suspend the privilege of the writ, and that the proclamation relied on, dated September 24, 1862, was not a valid exercise of power.

This decision, coming from a court of acknowledged ability and undoubted loyalty, attracted attention throughout the country, and Congress passed an act approved March 3, 1863, authorizing the President to suspend the writ of habeas corpus at any time during the war when he should deem such action necessary.

In re Griner, 16 Wis. 423, was an application for a writ of habeas corpus to discharge the petitioner from the custody of the military authorities. The prisoner having been drafted under the acts of congress, the real question passed upon by the court being the validity of such legislation, and it was held the act of Congress of February 28, 1795, which provides for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions, confers on the president authority to detail, draft, and call into the field the quotas of militia of the several states, and to make all necessary rules and regulations for that purpose, as supplemented by act of July 17, 1862 was valid.

The same rule was approved and applied in the case of Druecker v. Salomon, 21 Wis. 621, which was an action for false imprisonment by one of the participants in the efforts to oppose the draft, then about to be made by the officers of the state, acting by virtue of the laws of the United States.

In re Wehlitz, 16 Wis. 443, it was held that a resident alien, who had declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, became under the Constitution and laws of Wisconsin a citizen of this State, and one who had exercised the right of suffrage in this State, was liable to be drafted into the military service of the United States under the provisions of the acts of Congress of May 8, 1792, and July 17, 1862.

In re Conway, 17 Wis. 527, it was held that a minor of foreign birth who came to this country with his parents, and who attained full age before the father became a citizen of the United States, was not a citizen of the State and hence not liable to draft.

In Broadhead v. Milwaukee, 19 Wis. 624, Chapter 14 laws of 1865, authorizing towns, cities and villages to raise money by taxation for the payment of bounties to volunteers for the military service of the United States, was sustained as a valid exercise of legislative power. In the course of the opinion Chief Justice Dixon, speaking for the Court, says:

“I think the consideration of gratitude alone to the soldier for his services, be he volunteer, substitute or drafted man, will sustain a tax for bounty money to be paid to him or his family. Certainly no stronger consideration of gratitude can possibly exist than that which arises from the hardships, privations and dangers which attend the citizen in the military service of his country; and all nations have ever so regarded it. Who will say that the legislature may not, in consideration of such services, either directly or indirectly, or through the agency of the municipality or district to which he is credited, give to the soldier or his family a suitable bounty after his enlistment, or ever after his term of service has expired? I certainly cannot. It is a matter which intimately concerns the public welfare; and that nation will live longest in fact, as well as in history, and be most prosperous, whose people are most sure and prompt in the reasonable and proper acknowledgment of such obligations."

NOTE:—Table of volumes of the "Official Records of Union and Confederate Armies." Official and serial. Commencing with volume XXIV, Series I each separate book from No. 36 to 130 inclusive is given a serial number.
